CALENDARS.

Instructions to Editors.

The Master of the Rolls desires to call the attention of the Editors of Calendars to the following considerations, with a view to secure uniformity of plan in the important works on which they are engaged:—

He is anxious to extend, as far as is consistent with proper economy and despatch, the utility of the Calendars of State Papers now publishing under his control: 1st. As the most efficient means of making the national archives accessible to all who are interested in historical inquiries; 2nd. As the best justification of the liberality and munificence of the Government in throwing open these papers to the public, and providing proper catalogues of their contents at the national expense.

The greater number of the readers who will consult and value these works can have little or no opportunity of visiting the Public Record Office, in which these papers are deposited. The means for consulting the originals must necessarily be limited when readers live at a distance from the metropolis; still more if they are residents of Scotland, Ireland, distant colonies, or foreign States. Even when such an opportunity does exist, the difficulty of mastering the original hands in which these papers are written will deter many readers from consulting them. Above all, their great variety and number must present formidable obstacles to literary inquirers, however able, sanguine, and energetic, when the information contained in them is not made accessible by satisfactory Calendars.

The Master of the Rolls considers that, without superseding the necessity of consulting the originals, every Editor ought to frame his Calendar in such a manner that it shall present, in as condensed a form as possible, a correct index of the contents of the papers described in it. He considers that the entries should be so minute as to enable the reader to discover not only the general contents of the originals, but also what they do not contain. If the information be not sufficiently precise, if facts and names be omitted or concealed under a vague and general description, the reader will be often misled, he will assume that where the abstracts are silent as to information to be found in the documents, such information does not exist; or he will have to examine every original in detail, and thus one great purpose will have been lost for which these Calendars have been compiled.

I 88141. Wt. 8118.

As the documents are various, the Master of the Rolls considers that they will demand a corresponding mode of treatment. The following rules are to be observed:—

1st. All formal and official documents, such as letters of credence, warrants, grants, and the like, should be described as briefly as possible.

2nd. Letters and documents referring to one subject only should be catalogued as briefly as is consistent with correctness. But when they contain miscellaneous news, such a description should be given as will enable a reader to form an adequate notion of the variety of their contents.

3rd. Wherever a letter or paper is especially difficult to decipher, or the allusions more than ordinarily obscure, it will be advisable for the Editor to adhere, as closely as is consistent with brevity, to the text of the document. He is to do the same when it contains secret or very rare information.

4th. Where the Editor has deciphered letters in cipher, the decipher may be printed at full length. But when a contemporary or authorised decipher exists it will be sufficient to treat the cipher as an ordinary document.

5th. Striking peculiarities of expression, proverbs, manners, &c. are to be noticed.

6th. Original dates are to be given at the close of each entry, that the reader may know the exact evidence by which the marginal dates are determined.

7th. Where letters are endorsed by the receivers and the date of their delivery specified, these endorsements are to be recorded.

8th. The number of written pages of each document is to be specified, as a security for its integrity, and that readers may know what proportion the abstract bears to the original.

9th. The language of every document is to be specified. If, however, the greater part of the collection be in English, it will be sufficient to denote those only which are in a different tongue.

10th. Where documents have been printed, a reference should be given to the publication.

11th. Each series is to be chronological.

12th. The Prefaces of Editors, in explanation of documents in the volume, are not to exceed fifty pages, unless the written permission of the Master of the Rolls to the contrary be obtained.

 Editors employed in foreign archives are to transcribe at full length important and secret papers.

PREFACE	1
CALENDAR, 1729 to 1730	1
GENERAL INDEX	620

INTRODUCTION.

THE present volume of the Calendar of Treasury Books and Papers is continuous in date from the last volume published in 1889, but differs widely from that and preceding instalments in scope and plan. The portion of the Calendar hitherto published comprises six volumes, covering the years 1557–1728. But that portion is not, even in a restricted sense, a calendar of Treasury Records. It is entirely a calendar of one particular and single class of Treasury Records, viz. Treasury Board Papers. The general description of this class, Treasury Board Papers, is given by Mr. Redington in the preface to Vol. I. of the Calendar and need not be repeated. But it will be clear from that description how restricted is their official range when regard is had to the whole routine of Treasury work. In order to produce a correct impression or to give a proper account of each year's work at the Treasury, it would be necessary, in the first place, to record the resolutions of the Treasury Board, viz. from the Treasury Minute Books. Such resolutions do not appear on the Treasury Board Papers, save exceptionally and accidentally in the way of endorsement on particular papers. The proportion of papers among the Treasury Board Papers bearing such endorsements of Treasury Board Minutes is very small. Secondly, it would be necessary to take account of that class of Treasury work which, originating in other departments or with the King himself, came before the Treasury Board for final decision. From the King came letters patents, Privy Seals, royal sign manuals, or warrants under the royal sign manual, granting commissions or salaries or pensions and gifts of royal bounty, or directing particular payments or expenditures, as, e.g. presents to foreign princes. From the Admiralty, Paymaster of the Forces, Board of Works, Lord Chamberlain, and Officers of State, the Board of Trade and Plantations, and the various Commissioners of Customs, Excise, &c. came demands for the established allowances, or extraordinary demands or extraordinary propositions for work or expenditure implying demands. The record of all this mass of matter and routine work is contained in the King's Warrant Book, Lord Chamberlain's Warrant Book, and in a more scattered way in the Treasury Minute Book, Customs Book, Affairs of Taxes, and other books, and not at all, or quite fractionally and incidentally, in the Treasury Board Papers. It may be safely stated that for one communication of the nature just indicated which has strayed into and survived among the Treasury Board Papers (say, an original letter of demand from the Master of the Horse or the Paymaster General), there are hundreds such preserved in these subsidiary or departmental records, and there alone. Again, and in the same way, the actual executive work of the Treasury Board—its decisions as to expenditure or work involving expenditure, its warrants or endorsements of warrants for payments or appointments, and so on—all this is to be gathered from the Treasury Minute Book, the Money Book, Order Book, and Public Disposition Book. It would be perfectly futile to look for it in the Treasury Board Papers. If the large class of departmental reports—reports on reference from the Commissioners of Customs, Excise, Taxes, Admiralty, &c.—and the much smaller class of draft accounts or estimates—were weeded out from the Treasury Board Papers, there would be left little more than private memorials, petitions, letters, &c. of a most insignificant and unhistorical nature.

In view of this fact, therefore, that the single class of Treasury Board Papers is not for a moment representative of the whole circle of Treasury work, and that the more consistently and connectedly historical side of that work is of necessity contained in quite other and different classes of Treasury Records than the Treasury Board Papers, it has been determined by the Lords of the Treasury to depart from the plan of the calendar hitherto followed, and to institute a Calendar of "Treasury Books and Papers," or of Treasury Records proper, such records, i.e. as contain an account and produce a fairly complete impression of the work at the Treasury year by year.

Of such a calendar the present is the first and experimental volume.

The mass of records classed as Treasury Records and now preserved at the Public Record Office is very large. An account of them was drawn up in 1845 by Mr. W. H. Black, Assistant Keeper; and two complete MS. Record lists are also in existence at the Record Office. For the purposes of a calendar it would be quite impossible, as well as undesirable, to include all these records. They are too large, and also, in part, irrelevant in subject matter. It has been necessary, therefore, to make a selection. The principles guiding such a selection may, it is hoped, justify the fact and necessity of it. The main purpose throughout has been to produce a true and proper representation of each year's work at the Treasury. For such a purpose it would be of little use to preserve and calendar the proceedings of extraneous and non-related bodies, e.g. of the Royal Africa Company, whose records are preserved among those of the Treasury. The same remark applies to the records of temporary and expired commissions, the ultimate preservation of which at the Public Record Office may be doubtful. Further, the date of most of these commissions is posterior to that fixed upon as the limit for calendar purposes. Under the head of Treasury Records rejected for calendar purposes, for this double reason, would come the following (the dates being approximately those over which the records in each case ran, not the dates of the particular subject matters—claims, and what not—contained in them respectively) :—

Royal Africa Company, 1662 and 1672–1822.
Metropolitan Buildings Office, 1844–55.
Slave compensation, 1817–1832–1847.
French claims, 1818–1833.
Danish claims, 1834–41.
Spanish claims, 1838–41.
American Loyalist claims, 1784–1812.
Port of London Compensation Commission, 1799, 1805–24.
East Florida claims, 1785–9.
Caledonian Canal Commission, 1807–25.
Royal Military Canal and Road Commission, 1805–35.
Commissioners of Danish, Russian, Ottoman, Ragusan, Tuscan, Roman, and Ionian prizes, 1808–14.
Scottish Harbour Commission, 1807–24.
Highland Roads and Bridges, Commissioners of, 1803–1822.
Holyhead Harbour Commission, 1810–23.
Commissioners of American ships and cargoes condemned as prize, 1812–18.
Berbice Commissioners, 1812–17.
Courts of Justice Commission, 1815–24.
Courts of Law Commission, 1838–42.
Committee of Inquiry into Fees of Public Offices, 1836–1837.
Committee of Inquiry into Fees of Officers on Civil List Establishments, 1836–7.

Royal Gardens, 1838.
Municipal Corporations and Parliamentary Boundaries Commission, 1831–2, 1835–6.
Oxford University Commission, 1854–60.
Education Commission, 1858–61.
Irish Reproductive Loan Fund, 1822–55.
Revenue Inquiry Commission, 1830–1841.
National Debt Office Records.

The second large class of material which it is undesirable to treat in a Calendar of Treasury Papers is the varied series of revenue and establishment books—books of accounts, pure and simple. It is quite impossible, as well as unnecessary, to present such material in calendar form; and there is a further objection in the fact that the most succinct and authentic statement of such accounts occurs in the Exchequer Records or, in fine, in the declared accounts in the Pipe and Audit Office.

This decision would remove from the province of a calendar the following sets of records :—

Miscellaneous Revenue books (Customs and Excise, England and Scotland).
Quarterly Revenue books.
Statements of imports and exports.
Auditors' declarations of accounts.
Pell's declaration books.
Pell Office account books.
Civil List books.
Navy accounts and Victualling Office papers.
Commissariat books.
Tin coinage books.
Establishment books, Treasurer of Chamber.
" Great Wardrobe.
" Groom of Stole.
" Inland Revenue.
" Excise (Scotland).
" Customs (quarterly).
" Public Funds Books."
" Public Moneys."

It may create surprise and protest to include in this list of documents to be rejected as unsuited for calendar purposes the small series of folio booklets described as "Lowther's accounts."

This series, comprising eight thin folio books covering the years 1714–40, contains an account of one of the departments of the Secret Service expenditure. The volumes are in tabular or account form merely, the debtor side stating sums received by Thomas Lowther at the Receipt of the Exchequer for His Majesty's service (all of which sums will be found entered in Table II. of the present Calendar year by year), the creditor side giving the sums paid by him by order of the Lords of the Treasury pursuant to His Majesty's directions, together with the recipients' names. Many of the items there occurring correspond to entries in the Minute Book, Money Book, or King's Warrant Book, where payments of so much for such a purpose to such a person are directly ordered "out of the King's money in Mr. Lowther's hands." Where they so occur these entries are recorded in the following pages in Table II. as coming from such source. But to calendar Lowther's account books themselves is impossible. Such a course would involve a literal transcription, and the transcription would not reveal anything occult. The majority of the items refer to Treasury or Exchequer fees attending the issue of particular sums of money, fees for letters patent, or Privy Seals or bills, and so on. The remaining items consist mainly of payments of pensions and royal bounty, in which nothing is specified beyond recipients' names. It would therefore be as useless as it would be contrary to the theory of a calendar to include these accounts in the present volume. The following extract — taken at random — may serve to justify and explain this decision.

* Lowther's Accounts, Vol. V. pp. 7–8.

In the whole of the two years 1729–30 treated of in the present volume, there are only the following four entries in Lowther's accounts of any interest, and not occurring in the Treasury Minute Books or other sources :—

			£	s.	d.
1730	May 22	Paid Mr. Nathan Carrangston for a journey by post to the Isle of Wight and back to London. (Vol. V. p. 15.)	9	15	6
	October 20	Paid Mr. Samuel Barnsley for necessaries furnished for the office for reception of books and papers. (Ibid, p. 18.)	4	15	6
	November 16	Paid Mr. Smagge for a mahogany desk and book case for the use of John Scrope, Esq. (Ibid.)	21	0	0
	December 23	Paid Mark Frecker, Esq. to satisfy several bills of expenses occasioned by the Secretary and clerks' attending the Treasury last summer at Windsor. (Ibid.)	57	15	4

It is important to remember, and it will be evident from the above, that such books as Lowther's accounts are not Secret Service Books in the real sense, or rather that they represent only one of the less important branches of the Secret Service expenditure. They are more like a Privy Purse account, the objects of the various payments being restricted largely to office fees and small pensions or gifts of bounty. The Secret Service of England during the period under review in this volume, 1729–30, can be traced in quite another direction, viz. the periodic payments of so much to the Secretary of the Treasury, John Scrope, or to either of the Secretaries of State (mostly to Holles, Duke of Newcastle) of so much for Secret Service.* But

* Among the Treasury Records there are four volumes of Secret Service Books, covering the years 1689–1710. They are distinctly the Secret Service Books of the Secretary of the Treasury (not of the Secretary of State), and might be styled the predecessors of John Scrope's Secret Service Books, if John Scrope's Secret Service Books only existed. Of these four volumes No. I. covers April 1689, July to 1691 (accountant, Wm. Jephson); No. II. covers July 1691 to April 1695 (accountant, Henry Guy); Nos. III. and IV. cover May 1695 to June 1701, and June 1701 to August 1710 (accountant, Wm. Lowndes). Jephson's and Guy's volumes are skeleton and tabular in form, but Lowndes' volumes have more the form of entry books of payments and receipts, are fuller of information as to the items or method of disbursement of these latter sums there is no account known to exist. Presumably the Secret Service fund of the Secretary of State was intended for foreign negotiations, services, diplomatic gifts, &c. while that of the Secretary of the Treasury was devoted to parliamentary bribery, pensions, &c. &c. The only traces of secret agents yielded in the present volume are contained possibly in the applications of "Le Connu" (q.v. in Index) for salary. But there are no traces of the Duke of Newcastle's expenditure, and as to John Scrope's Secret Service moneys, the tradition that Walpole subsequently destroyed all record of such expenditure is an extremely probable one in itself.

After the elimination of the above material there remain as fit for the purposes of a Calendar of Treasury Records the following series:—

1. Treasury Minute Book.—This noble series of volumes commences in 1667, and after three breaks, 1670–1, 167½–1689, and 1689–95, continues to the present day without the further loss of a single volume, although there is a lacuna between 1722, April 28, and 172⁴⁄₅, January 13.

The general question of the origin and development of these Minute Books has been illustrated by a long series of extracts by Mr. Black in the report above quoted (Deputy Keeper's Report VII. Ap. II. pp. 14 and 66–97). The system of Minute Books, and with it a good deal more that is characteristic of our modern Treasury system, in the entries, and very often preserve the original receipts, which are pasted in. A similar and preceding volume of Henry Guy's, covering 1679–88, has been published by the Camden Society (o. s. Vol. LIII.), and in the Clar. Corresp. I. 654–5, there is an account (charge without discharge) of the Secret Service, 1687–8. In the latter case the majority of the items are charged to the debit of Henry Guy, but other recipients appear representing possibly smaller Departments of the Secret Service, besides a sum of about 40,000*l.* for the Privy Purse.

began in 1667 as a result of putting the Treasury into commission after the death of Southampton. The early Warrant Books of the time of Charles I. which cover the year when the Treasury was in commission under Laud and others, and also the period of Juxon's High Treasurership, bear only a slight resemblance in form to a Minute Book. The first surviving volume is entitled a "General Entry Book of Warrants, Resolutions, Orders, and other Transactions of the Lords of the Treasury," 1635–6. The entries in this volume and in the succeeding volumes relating to the same period frequently contain the full text of warrants or orders. Petitions are entered sometimes in full, sometimes in brief, and the resolutions thereon are occasionally entered rather in the terms of an order or a letter than of a minute. At other times a form more nearly approximating to that of a Minute Book is adopted.

This mixed species of Entry Book or Warrant Book and Minute Book proper is still preserved in 1660, but from the latter date up to 1667 a process of transition can be partially traced. The "Early Money and other Warrant Books" series contains a miscellaneous set of 14 volumes, covering this transition period and affording a clue to the later bifurcation. In Vol. I. of this series (extending 1660, June 22 to November 22, and thus covering the period June 19 to September 8, when the Treasury was in commission under Sir Edward Hyde and seven others, and a slight portion of Southampton's High Treasurership) there are entered without discrimination warrants relating to land and warrants for money, the long verbal text of orders relating to appointments, petitions in full, and reports also in full made on reference. Certificates and royal sign manuals, all in full, are mingled with brief minutes proper of resolutions of the Lords of the Treasury or of the Lord High Treasurer Southampton. But the form of the book is preponderatingly that of an order book or entry book of orders, as is to a certain extent indicated by the MS. title given to it by a contemporary hand, "Perticuler persons orders touching the Exchequer."

Vol. II. (November 20, 1660, February 28, 1660–1) is an Entry Book pure and simple signed by Southampton from beginning to end. The few minutes which occasionally appear in Vol. I. as recording resolutions of the Lords Commissioners necessarily disappear. The entries comprise orders of reference upon petitions, reports in full upon such reference, letters in full, royal sign manuals, warrants touching money, land or appointments.

Vol. XIV. is labelled "patents" and covers 1660, November 26, to 1661, October. It opens with seven pages of briefs of letters patents relating to payments of money, but almost immediately, from December, 1660, becomes a Money Book proper, i.e. a book of entry of money warrants from the Earl of Southampton to Sir Robert Pye, authorising him in quite the usual form to draw orders or pass debentures for such and such payments.

Vol. III. is labelled "money" and covers 1661, October, to 1662, October. Like Vol. XIV. it contains the verbal text of the High Treasurer's warrants addressed to the Auditor of the Receipt, Sir Robert Pye or (Sir) Robert Long, or to the Commissioners and Farmers of Customs, or as otherwise necessary, together with royal sign manuals and royal warrants for money.

Vol. IV. and V. like Nos. XIV. and III. relate to money, and cover November 20, 1662, to December 18, 1663, and December 14, 1663, to July 24, 1665.

Vol. VI. lettered "C." extends from 1660, September 12, to 1661, June 11. It is an Entry Book parallel or partly synchronous with No. XIV. and is labelled "Lands." It contains in its earlier portion reports and warrants relating to Crown land leases, Privy Seals dormant as to salaries, letters patent as to appointments, royal warrants as to trade with France, warrants as to money, the pay of the army in Scotland and pensions. But from about November 1660, the volume relates almost entirely to lands, Crown land leases and grants, Commissioners for sale of lands, &c.

Vol. VII.* lettered E. covers 1661, July 11, to 1661–2, February 24. It is labelled "warrants of several natures," and with the exception of a few private petitions and reports thereon and warrants for appointments, consists entirely of entries of warrants, &c., relating to the Crown lands, exactly in the style of No. 6.

Vols. VIII. IX. X. refer to Customs. VIII. covers 1660, June 22, to 1661, May 21. Lettered "perticuler persons orders touching the Customs." Page 1. "At the meeting at the Council Chamber at Whitehall of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury. Thursday, June 22, 1660." Then follow such minutes as refer to Customs, and appended to the minutes are such letters, warrants or orders in full as were written or made in pursuance of such minutes. From August 28 the minutes as such cease, and after September 8 the warrants, letters, instructions and orders of references pass in the name of Thos. Earl of Southampton.

* At pp. 116–7 of this volume occur the following entries, affording some unsatisfactory clue to the parallelism of the documents contained in this series.

"Lancelott Tomlyn petition and reference to the Surveyor General entered in the Book B. folio 5. Whereupon Sir Richard Prideaux reports . . . (here follows the report, the case relating to Crown lands).

"Mr. Congden, petition and reference to Sir Charles Harbord entered in the Book D. folio 237. Whereupon Sir Charles reports . . (here follows the report, the case again relating to Crown lands).

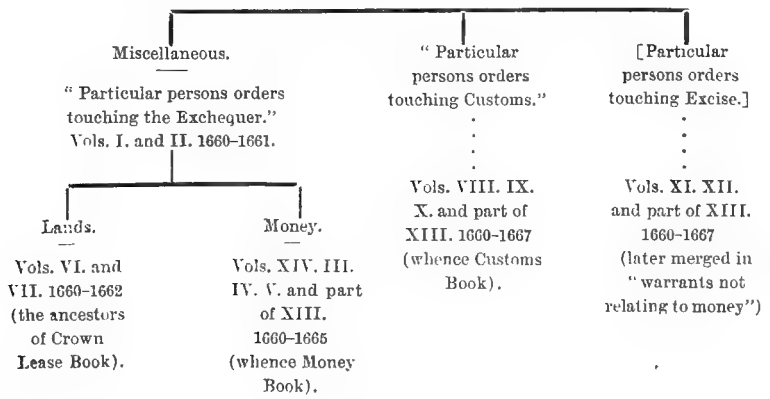
Vols. IX. and X. cover 1661, May 24 to 1661, November 1, and 1661, October 30, to 1667, April 23, both volumes concerning Customs and signed throughout by Southampton.

Vols. XI. XII. refer to Excise. XI. covers October 27, 1660, to April 30, 1663. All the entries, comprising warrants for appointments, quarterly allowances, letters, orders of reference and reports, are signed by Southampton and there are no minutes.

Vol. XII. covers April 30, 1663, to February 12, 1666–7, and is exactly like XI. At the commencement of the volume there is the following memorandum, "all business proper to this book from the 1st of July to the 19th of February 1665, is entered in the book entitled 'The Progresse Book.'"

Vol. XIII. is the "Progress Book" thus referred and covers July 1665 to Lady Day, 1666, during which period the Treasury was removed to Nonsuch and Southampton's orders are signed from Aps Court or Stratton. The entries relate alike to Customs, Excise, land and money, and the book was evidently a general entry book for all Treasury business during the recess in plague time.

The concatenation of the sets of documents just surveyed may be graphically illustrated thus :—



From a survey of the records covering this extremely important interim period, 1660–7, therefore the following conclusions are deducible.

1. That at least three parallel sets of books were in use at the Treasury, viz. Excise, Customs and General, the latter splitting up into Money Book and Land Book from September 1660.
2. That for the few months during which the Treasury was in commission under Hyde and others, and before Southampton's treasurership, regular minutes were taken. But instead of being entered in one book specially reserved for a "Minute Book" the various minutes were scattered through the three or more parallel sets of books, according as such minutes referred to the business of now the one and now the other set; and to these minutes thus scattered and divided amongst three or more parallel sets of volumes were appended irregularly records of the, or some of the, subsequent acts which were taken upon the instruction of the minute, e.g. the letter written or the reference ordered, or the report made after reference, or the order or warrant made out and so on.
3. With the commencement of Southampton's treasurership the need of a formal resolution of a board disappeared, and with it the minute itself. But the course of Treasury business remained the same with certain developments. Instead of the minute of approval of a certain appointment, or of a quarter's salary bill in the Customs, the appointment or the bill is entered with Southampton's approval or confirmation in the Customs Book. So for matters relating to Excise. So for matters relating to Crown leases. While in the matter of money warrants the separate Money Book emerges from at least December 1660. That is to say, the minute of resolution implied in the Lord High Treasurer's decision is scattered through the parallel sets of volumes in just the same way as the minutes of the preceding Commissioners had been.

From 1667 the Treasury was again put into commission by letters patent of May 24, 19 Car. II. the Lords Commissioners being George Duke of Albemarle, Anthony Lord Ashley, Sir Thos. Clifford, Sir Wm. Coventry, and Sir John Duncombe. As a matter of course the need of some record of the formal resolutions of this body at once emerged. Instead however of going back to the old system of scattering the minutes among various parallel sets of volumes, according as such minutes related to the subject-matter of any one of those sets, and then attaching to the minute thus deposited the record of subsequent steps taken upon it, the innovation was made of having a book "singly to register the brief notes to be made by the Secretary to the Lords Commissioners."

The first meeting of these Commissioners was held on the 25th May 1667, and was devoted to the reading of the commission. The second was held two days later on the 27th, and the first resolution then recorded was as follows:—

"Ordered that the Secretary Sir George Downing, Knight and Baronet, attending this commission should keep a book singly for registering the brief notes he should take for framing any orders upon or pursuing other their Lordships directions, which notes at their next meeting and before they entered upon any new business he should acquaint them with and what was done thereupon, and so from time to time what progress was made upon any directions then unperfected. That he should enter the names of the Commissioners present at every meeting and constantly observe this method."

From this date 1667 to the present, with the exception of the lacunæ already referred to, the system and record of these Treasury Minute Books is unbroken.

With regard to the subject-matter and method of these Minute Books, however, considerable changes are noticeable after certain lapses of time, changes due to some or other alteration in the methods of Treasury work or book-keeping. At the first the minutes are exceedingly full, recording and noticing all kinds of Treasury business. But at a later period they become much more meagre and attenuated.

The following is a copy of one day's proceedings of the Treasury Board as recorded in the early Minute Books:—

May the 30th, 1667, Thursday.

[Treasury Minute Book I. p. 6–7.]

The marked change from the fulness of entry and wide variety of subject-matter which thus distinguish the earliest Minute Books to the meagreness of detail and subject-matter of the Minute Books later than 1689, is to be attributed to change in official routine or in the system of Treasury book-keeping. This will become apparent in a moment in the account (below) of the Reference Books and Register of Papers. It was a simple process of reference or simplification of Treasury routine or book-keeping. (1.) So much matter as could fall automatically under special heads, e.g. money (the making out and signing of warrants); Customs and Excise (the referring of petitions for report, the confirmation of an appointment, the approval of a quarterly salary or incidents bill); land (the ordering of a survey, particular or constat, the granting of a lease or release), would be left to be recorded in the books of the various offices or officials concerned. (2.) Private petitions, memorials, or letters not falling under the above-named special heads were frequently passed on with the resolution of the Lords Commissioners endorsed upon them as a minute, and such minutes may, as often as not, be searched for in vain in the Treasury Minute Books. If recorded at all they were recorded in skeleton lists of "documents read with resolutions thereupon."

The one process of development evolved the Money Books, Customs Books, Crown Lease Books, Tax Books; the other evolved the Reference Books and Registers of Papers.

With the development of these subsidiary departments and of the series of Reference Books and Registers of Papers the process of weeding down the actual record of Treasury minutes became pronounced and, in a way, systematised, so that in the years 1729–30, the years covered by the present volume, the Treasury minutes are still quite meagre as compared with those of 1667. A correct idea of the executive function of the Lords Commissioners during those two years, 1729–30—of the warrants for money which they signed or for expenditure which they authorised,—must be gleaned from the Money Books, Order Books, and Disposition Books, rather than from the Minute Books. Again, the list of private papers with their Lordships' resolutions thereupon, as contained in the Treasury Minute Books, is still more incomplete, and must be supplemented with the lists in the Reference Books, Register of Papers, and Treasury Board Papers, not to mention the references to private papers in the Tax Books and Customs Books. Again, in another direction, the record of the ordinary Scotch and Irish business which the Lords of the Treasury transacted was relegated almost entirely to the North British and Irish Books respectively, appearing in the Treasury Minute Book only quite exceptionally. On the other hand, so devoid of any perceptible plan is the general system of these Minute Books, that it would be quite wrong to assert that the Minute Books represent the residuum left after the subtraction of all the above routine or departmental matters. Minutes of the signing of warrants for money do occur in them, though in quite a fractional quantity as compared with the number of money warrants preserved in the Money Books proper; entries of private petitions and of orders of reference, or otherwise, thereupon also occur, of such a nature as to be quite undistinguishable from those recorded in the Registers of Papers or Reference Books; minutes relating to Irish and Scotch affairs occur, as also to Customs, Excise, taxes, and Crown land business, and yet, under all these heads, the entries form a small proportion only of the total entries preserved in the various separate series of records, Irish Books, North Britain Books, Customs Books, and so on. I have been quite unable to detect the principle which guided the selection of certain entries for the Treasury Minute Books and the relegation of the rest to subsidiary or departmental books.

By the side of the Minute Books stand three sets of documents. (1.) Reference Book. (2.) Registers of Papers. (3.) Letter Book; the former two in a much closer and more organic connexion with the Minute Books than the latter.

The Reference Book series begins in 1679–80, and from 1684 extend in an unbroken series to 1819. They contain notices of such papers as, after being presented to the Treasury Board and there read, were referred by their Lordships to some official or department for report and advice. In the earliest Minute Books, Vols. I. to IV. extending from 1667–72, such entries of reference are recorded in the Minute Book itself. The innovation of adopting a separate set of books for minutes of reference must have been made between 1672 and 1679. Owing to the loss of the Minute Books of this period a more precise date cannot be fixed. There is, however, faintly visible on the back of Vol. I. of the Reference Books a figure 2, which may imply that Vol. I. had a predecessor. If so, allowing a period of two or three years for each volume, the system of reference books may have been adopted in 1676. The earliest surviving volume (not numbered in the continuous series) extends from 1679–80, January 22, to 1681–2, February 18. Quite frequently petitions are entered in full, followed by the orders of reference thereupon. At other times simply a brief note of the petition, presentment, or whatever it was, is prefixed to the order of reference, e.g.

Thos. Langley, Commissioner of the Pacquet Boates at Harwich.	Upon his petition for the place of searcher in the port of Ipswich, void by the death of Mr. Robinson. 28 Januarii 1679. Referred to the Commissioners of the Customs to examine his fitness for the same by the officers there, and to make report to their Lordships how they find him qualified. HEN. GUY. Boundshaw, Christopher. Bartholomew Fillingham and Jo^{n} Ramsay Esqr. who are desired to make a speedy report to their Ldps. what they thinke fitt to be done thereupon. [Ibid, p. 124.]

The succeeding volumes of Reference Books (numbered I. and dating 1684, May 16, to 1684–5, February 23, and so onwards) are entirely on the same lines, save that papers are more fully entered, though this fulness again was subsequently departed from.

With regard to duplication, the Reference Books duplicate occasionally, but very seldom, with the Treasury Minute Book. They duplicate with the Registers of Papers frequently, but oftener in cases of petitions from private people (e.g. concerning lottery annuities, demands for proclamation rewards, or for stay of process of Exchequer, &c.) than in those of memorials from departments or officials asking for pay or arrears, &c.

Registers of Papers stand in closest relationship to Treasury Minute Books after the Reference Books.

The earliest form of "register of papers" is contained in four folios of "alphabetical registers" which cover the years 1702–11 (Vol. I. 1702, May–July; Vol. II. 1704–5, March, to 1706, September; Vol. III. 1709, June, to 1710, August; Vol. IV. 1710, August, to 1711, June), and precede the later series of Register of Papers proper.

In these alphabetical registers the notices of papers and references, &c. thereupon are entered alphabetically, and not, as in the Registers of Papers proper, according to date. Each of the four volumes has its edges cut away ledgerwise so as to form an alphabetical index. The method of entry is the same throughout, the name of the person petitioning, &c. in the left-hand column and the order thereupon in the right-hand, but without headings to the columns.

A single extract will suffice for illustration :—

Ash, Edward -	26 May 1702. Granted.
Auge, Jno. - - -	Vide Braddon.
Atterbury, Tho.	29 [May 1702] my L^{ds} will consider him when there is a vacancy.

Anderson, Arthur -	17 [June 1702] Ref. to Commissioners of Salt Duties.

It is quite possible that this system of alphabetical registration began much earlier than the date indicated here. As already observed throughout Vols. 1–4 of the Treasury Minute Books, the records of private petitions state the substance of the resolution thereupon. But in Vol. V. beginning with 1689, the Treasury Minute Books become exceedingly meagre, entries or minutes of private petitions, &c. hardly appearing at all. It is therefore probable that before this date, 1689, the system of preserving minutes of private papers, other than those marked for reference and so preserved in the Reference Books, in a separate book or register had been adopted. An order of date 1689, April 20 (Treasury Minute Book, Vol. V. p. 7), "that when petitions are brought in, the day on which they are exhibited be entered on the back thereof," may indicate some step in the process of change of method.

But whatever the date of the origin of the alphabetical register system, it was almost certainly superseded in 1711, the last date preserved as above, by the alternative system of a chronological register, a register book in which papers presented were entered under the date of each meeting day of the Treasury Board, together with the minutes thereon.

The earliest existing volume of this second and proper series of Registers of Papers begins in October 1713, but it begins in so brief and business like a way as to render it very probable that a preceding volume has been lost which would cover 1711–13.

In this earliest existing volume the Registers of Papers adopt the ordinary minute book form. The following is a copy of the first day's records :—

French, Oglethorp	Oct. 14, 1713.—Petition of Geo. French and Rich[d] Oglethorp, evidences in the matter of Coll[l] Park praying subsistence; attorney Generall's report upon it read. Send to M[r] Barret to know whether the Queen ordered these men to come over. M[r] Barret's report read Oct. 20. Ordered 5*l.* a piece and if the tryal be over this term 5*l.* a piece more. Second petition read Oct. 21. Third petition read Nov. 3 1713. [Referred] to M[r] Barret. Fourth petition 13 Nov. 1713. To know what they received from Douglass. Affidavit that they received nothing 8 Dec. 1713. Ordered to be delivered to M[r] Barret to consider.
Wise - -	Memorial of Henry Wise praying 100*l.* per week from Michaelmas last till Christmas next for the new works at Windsor. To be paid 75*l.* per week from this day to the 14th Dec[r].
Sephton	Petition of Daniel Sephton praying for a letter to recommend him to M[r] Ryley. [Register of Papers I. p. 1.]

Volume II. commencing with 1717, June 6, departs from the minute book form used in Vol. I. and adopts that of a table with three columns respectively headed :—

Petitions and Memorials, &c. this day read.	The directions.	To whose hands the said Petitions, &c. were delivered.

This form continues until about the middle of Vol. VI. when, from about January, 1726–7, the 3rd, last, column here noted is left blank, only the title of the paper or report read and the directions thereupon being preserved. Thus from being a subsidiary Minute Book standing parallel with the greater series of Treasury Minute Books, the Registers of Papers had sunk by 1717, and more distinctively still by 1726, to the character of a register or list merely. The change must have been systematic or indicative of a system, and for the years 1729–30, here calendared, can hardly be attributed, as it has been, to the expansion of the Minute Book, seeing that the Minute Books of 1729 are so meagre by comparison with those of 1667.

The later developments of the Register of Papers lie outside the scope of this introduction. They have been traced by Mr. Black ubi supra, p. 24. It only remains to add that, as far as duplication is concerned, the "registers" in the period covered by this volume duplicate (but only partially) with "Affairs of Taxes" and apparently with no other concurrent set of records.

During at least the years 1705–23, by the side of the Reference Books and Register of Papers there existed a third set of books, springing from and intimately related to the Minute Book, viz.: APPOINTMENT BOOK, i.e. books in which were entered appointments of the Lords of the Treasury with various persons to attend the Board.

Of these books, however, only two volumes now exist at the Treasury, covering respectively 1705, November 28 to 1709, May 17, and 1714, October 18, to 1723, June 14.

They do not therefore enter into the plan of this Calendar. Further, a glance at the Treasury Minutes in the present volume shows that in the years 1729 onwards appointments are entered in the Minute Book in part, and possibly in whole.

After the Reference Book, Registers of Papers and Appointment Book, the series of records which stand in next closest relationship to the Minute Books is the Letter Book. The essential difference is that Letter Books are not, like the Minute Book and its two adjuncts, a record of proceedings or of papers received and referred, but are exclusively entry books of letters written and signed by the Secretary of the Treasury as a result of the instructions or orders delivered by the Lords of the Treasury at their meetings. The subject-matter of such letters covers the whole circle of business centreing in the Treasury Office, all departmental work, English, North British or Irish, in which reference to the Treasury was necessary or had been made, legal business of the Crown or Treasury, Exchequer and revenue matters, including establishments, pensions and bounties, private matters arising on memorials, petitions, &c. &c.

The adoption of the Entry Book for Letters dates from the same period, 1667, which saw the evolution of the main features of the modern Treasury system. The early Warrant Books still preserved relating to the Treasury in the time of Laud and Juxon contain letters, but they also contain minutes, copies of orders, warrants from and petitions to the Lords Commissioners or Lord Treasurer. They cannot therefore claim any relationship with a Letter Book system proper, i.e. an Entry Book of letters emanating from the Lords of the Treasury and written by their secretary. The question whether there was any intermediate form between the miscellaneous Warrant Book of Laud's time and the Letter Book of 1668 must be left for further consideration. But certainly there are many letters of a miscellaneous nature in the years 1660–7, entered in the series entitled "Early Money and other Books" already described, implying the absence of anything corresponding to a Letter Book during the years of Southampton's treasurership. During these years, 1660–7, the system would seem to have been to enter letters referring to Customs, or land, or money in separate books devoted generally to Customs, or land, or money matters and so on. And it was probably only when a Minute Book began to be kept that the secretary logically followed up that innovation by keeping an Entry Book for all letters which he was called upon to write in accordance with the minutes of their Lordship's determinations at the Board.

* Of the Letter Books still preserved Vol. I. begins quite abruptly and without any memorandum or exordium (implying possibly that some other volume preceded it), as follows:—

The last letter in the volume bears date 24th March 1668–9 (with two or three entries of July and August 1671), and the letters throughout are entered in full.

Vol. II. extends 1669–70, March, to 1671, July.

Vol. III. extends 1671, October, to 1673, April (with the letters all in full, but also containing some entries that should be in the Reference Books).

Vol. IV. extends 1679, March 27, to 1680, June 7. Besides letters entered in full, it contains copies of a few other documents, proclamations, informations, &c.

Vol. V. extends 1680, June 7, to 1682, July 29. With the succeeding volume the enumeration recommences at No. 1, though quite needlessly, as No. 1 of the "general" Letter Books, from which the enumeration of the present series of Letter Books takes its inception, is continuous from Vol. V. of the preceding miscellaneous series, that volume ending in July 1682, and No. 1 in the present enumeration of the "General" Letter Books beginning in the same month.

From this date the series of General Letter Books is quite unbroken.

Turning to the executive side of the Treasury work, the record of the actual signing and issue of warrants and orders for payment of money is preserved in three parallel sets of documents—Money Books, Order Books, and Disposition Books.

MONEY BOOKS contain entries of warrants emanating from the Lords of the Treasury, and addressed to the Auditor of the Receipt, authorising that official to draw an order or to make forth and pass debentures for paying so much to such a person for such a purpose. The form of this warrant was usually as follows, mutatis mutandis.

Band of Pensioners, 1,500*l.* for Michaelmas quarter, 1729.	After &c. By virtue of His Majesty's letters patent bearing date the 8th day of February 1727 these are to pray and require your Lordship to draw an order for paying unto James Moore and Arthur Moore Junr Esq^{rs} Receivers and Paymasters of the Band of Gentlemen Pensioners or to their deputy or his assigns the sum of 1,500*l.* without account for one quarter of a year due at Michaelmas last past 1729 on the allowance of 6,000*l.* per annum for the wages and board wages of the Captain, Lieutenant, Standard bearer, and 40 Gentlemen Pensioners according to the annexed roll subscribed by His Grace the Duke of Devonshire, Captain of the said Band: and let the said order be satisfied out of any money in the Receipt of the Exchequer applicable to the uses of His Majesty's civil Government. For which this shall be your Lordships' warrant. Whitehall Treasury Chambers 1729 October 16. R. WALPOLE. CHA. TURNER. To Aud^{r} Rec^{t}. W^{M}. CLAYTON.

The authorisation for this warrant might arise by letters of Privy Seal, letters of Privy Seal dormant, royal sign manuals, or warrants under the royal sign manual, or by determination of the Lords of the Treasury on their own mere initiative: and the clause of direction might contain the specification of some particular fund, or the more general words "out of any money remaining in the Receipt of the Exchequer applicable to the uses of His Majesty's civil Government" as that out of which the prescribed payment was to be made, e.g. :—

"Let this be paid out of monies to be paid into the Exchequer by Sir Richard Otley and Col. Scriven upon their Fire-hearth Account for Shropshire" (Money Book II. p. 153, 1669, May 11).

The origin of the Money Books during the period 1660–7 has been already traced. According to the present enumeration the regular series begins with No. 1 in 1676, and continues to modern times. But some portion of the intermediate period, 1667–76, is covered by a subsidiary or miscellaneous series of "Early Money and other Warrant Books," consisting of 15 volumes, numbered 1 to 15, with another volume containing a general calendar of entries.

This series is very important historically, and merits description.

Vol. I. covers 1667, May 31, to 1668, April 2. Contains warrants in the quite regular form addressed to the Auditor of the Receipt authorising him to draw orders or else warrants addressed to the farmers of the Customs authorising payments.

Vol. II. covers 1668, April 3, to 1671, July 15. Exactly like No. I.

Vol. III. covers 1671, September 30, to 1673, June 17. Is labelled "General Money Book except Customs and Excise." Contains warrants to the Auditor in the usual form.

Vol. IV. covers 1668, April 3, to 1668–9, February 17. Is labelled "Warrants on the Hearth Money." With the exception of this difference as to the clause of direction the warrants are to the Auditor and in the usual form.

Vol. V. covers 1669, March 30, to 1671, June 26. "Hearth Money Book." Exactly like No. IV.

Vol. VI. covers 1668, April 4, to 1669, May 6. Is labelled "Warrants on the lesser branches of His Majesty's revenues, viz. tenths, tin, alum, receivers of land revenues, sixpenny writs, Post Office, wool farms, salt, issues of jurors, tin at Ostend, Alienation Office, wine licences." With these various differences as to the clause of direction the warrants are, as usual, to the Auditor of the Receipt.

Vol. VII. covers 1668, April 9, to 1671, August 31. Is labelled "Money Warrants upon the One and the Eleaven Months' Tax." Warrants as above (No. VI.).

Vol. VIII. covers 1668, May 18, to 1671, November 10. Is labelled "Warrants upon the Country and London Excise." Warrants otherwise as above (No. VI.).

Vol. IX. covers 1671, May 23, to 1671, July 13. Is labelled "New [and] Additional Excise." In reverse order in this book are entries of petitions of the Farmers of Excise proposing securities, and minutes of approval of same or otherwise, extending 1671, May 17 to June 30.

Vol. X. covers 1670, April 29, to 1671, July 27. Is labelled "Warrants upon the loans in the Wine Act to be registered in course."

Vol. XI. covers 1670, April 22, to 1671, September 26. Is labelled "Warrants to be registered in course on the monies arising by the fee farme rents." Concludes with an order to the following effect:—"Notwithstanding former Privy Seal of 28 August 21 Car. II. our direction thereupon for registering of orders on the proceeds of fee farms, such proceeds shall be paid in future first to discharge all orders on such loans, then for orders registered upon that revenue for the use of the Navy, Ordnance," &c. &c.

Vol. XII. covers 1670, July 13, to 1671, September 19. Is labelled "Warrants charged on the new farm of the Customs commencing September 29, 1671."

granted for disbanding the army." It relates mostly to the period 1679, May 15 to June 30:—

Page 1. "The warrants whereof the underwritten are docquetts are entered at large in the general Money Books in the several pages mentioned in the margent."

Pages 50 +. Same (for officers), 1679, May 22 to May 30.

Pages 100 +. Same (for quarters) to May 31.

Pages 150 +. Same (for clothes), 1682, May 24, to 1687, November 2, and a few later entries extending to October 1692.

Vol. XIV. covers 1667, June 19, to 1668–9, February 12. Is labelled "Abstract of all warrants for money charged on the several branches of His Majesty's Revenue, 1667 and 1668." Is in tabular form.

Vol. XV. is labelled "Abstract booke of all warrants for monies to the Trear. and Victualler of the Navy and other grand payments from the first of January 1669[–70] to" [no date]. Is in ledger form and alphabetical, according to the various accounts open.

Vol. XVI. is labelled "Generall Callandar of all entries."

It is impossible to say how much of the preceding 15 volumes or any others are indexed or covered by this last volume.

Following on this early series comes the general series of Money Books. Vol. I. covering 1679, April 1, to 1679–80, February 16, and so on to modern times.

The warrants are all addressed to the Auditor of the Receipt, and, as will be gathered from the present volume of Calendar, concern every branch and species of Treasury payments, quarterly bills for all departments and establishments, Navy for shipbuilding, Ordnance, royal bounty, pensions from whatever fund previously payable, Privy Purse, Wardrobe, &c. &c.

Of the three parallel sets of money or account books kept by the Treasury, viz. Money Books, Order Books, and Public Disposition Books, the first are undoubtedly of the greatest value, intrinsically, because the entries in them are longer, more circumstantial or detailed, and also more numerous than those in the Order Book; and extrinsically because they supply gaps in the lists of Treasury warrants in the Pell records, which are very defective from 1712, and which cease in 1757. Among the Exchequer records the Treasury Money Books are represented by the Auditor's Warrant Books.

Order Book.—On the receipt of the Treasury authorisation, contained in the warrants just described, to draw an order for a particular payment, the Auditor of the Receipt drew such an order in the prescribed form and remitted it to the Treasury for the signature of the Lord Treasurer or the Lords Commissioners.

This order ran usually in the following form mutatis mutandis :—

"Order is taken this xxv. day of February 1684 by virtue of His Majesty's letters of Privy Seal dated the 24th instant that you direct and pay of such His Majesty's treasure as remains in your charge unto Anthony Lord Viscount Falkland, Treasurer of His Majesty's Navy or his assigns the sum of two hundred thousand pounds upon accompt for the use and service of His Majesty's said Navy and the victualling thereof. And these together with his or his assign's acquittance shall be your discharge herein."

The reciting clause is frequently as follows :—

"By virtue of His Majesty's general letters of Privy Seal bearing date . . . and in pursuance of the warrant under His Majesty's sign manual dated . . ."

Generally orders are made by virtue of letters of Privy Seal, dormant letters of Privy Seal, letters patent, or general dormant letters patent, and even occasionally "by Act of Parliament," and this authorisation is recited in the Treasury money warrant on which the Auditor drew his order and which served as the intermediate step between the Privy Seal and the Auditor's order.

When signed by the Lord Treasurer or three of the Lords Commissioners the Auditor's order was forwarded to that one of the Tellers of the Exchequer on whom it was drawn. On this order, after it had been entered in the Order books of the Pell Office, and after the further formality of the letter of direction, the Teller paid the money, taking the payee's receipt.

The record of all the Auditor's orders thus drawn as above and countersigned by the Lords of the Treasury is contained in the Order Books. It is to be distinctly understood that this is the Treasury record of the Auditor's orders. On his side, the Auditor kept his own independent account of these orders, and a third parallel account of them was kept in the Pells' Order Books, both these latter representing the Exchequer side of the same sets of transactions. On the Exchequer side also, the original orders themselves are preserved in parcels or bundles entitled "Modern Tellers' Vouchers." But with the possible exception of these latter, which are comparatively unworkable for the historical student, the Treasury series of Order Books is of much greater continuity and extent, and consequently of greater value than the parallel Exchequer sets.

With regard to the period of origin of the Treasury series of Order Books there can be little doubt. The two parallel and corresponding sets of Order Books on the Exchequer side, viz. the Auditor's Order Book and the Pells Order Book are earlier in date of origin than the Treasury series. The Pells Order Books extend from 1597–1698. The Auditor's Order Books cover 1621–78 and 1697, while the original orders preserved among the Modern Tellers' Vouchers extend from 1560–1669 and 1701–1834. The existence of such Order Books on the Exchequer side does not necessarily imply the contemporary existence of a parallel series on the Treasury side. The whole of the Treasury machinery and organisation is to be regarded as an offshoot and aftergrowth from the Exchequer system, and therefore as later in all the details of development. The earliest extant volume of Order Book on the Treasury side begins in 1667, and it is quite apparent from the manner of its commencement that it marks a departure in the method of Treasury business or bookkeeping. Previous to this the treasurer must have contented himself with his Money Book without keeping any record whatever of his signature of orders. The volume begins with a formal recital of the same minute of 1667, May 27, which has been already noted as having led to the inception of the series of Treasury Minute Books, supra, p. xv. On the face of it, the wording of that minute would seem to refer to an Order Book as well as (if not rather than) a Minute Book. The inference that this minute marks the commencement of the series of Treasury Order Books as well as the Treasury Minute Books is practically confirmed by the immediately succeeding entry in Order Book I. as follows :—

29th of May 1667.

*Present:

THE DUKE OF ALBEMARLE, LORD ASHLEY, SIR THO. CLIFFORD, SIR WM. COVENTRY, SIR JOHN DUNCOMBE.

All met as aforesaid and signed these several orders following, viz.:—

Then follows the text of an auditor's order in full. succeeded by a brief of other like orders in this form :—

	£
"The like order of the same date for Edward Blackwill, Esq. The sum of" - - - -	13,000

And 11 other briefs of orders in exactly the same form.

Then follows a heading "CERTIFICATE," the classification implying an Auditor's order as before, but with the recital of a certificate or of certificates under the hands of such and such officers or commissioners as to the due delivery of goods, &c. for which payment is in question. Following the text of this "certificate" order there are briefs of 30 others the like.

Then succeeds another heading :—

"Orders for the Treasurer of the Navy for salary and wages for officers, seamen, and mariners."

The first order is given in full, and an entry list of briefs is then made of 48 like orders for different sums.

The list of orders signed at the succeeding day's meeting is again headed with the date of the meeting and the names of the Lords of the Treasury present.

* [Order Book I. pp. 1–9.]

Now this is not at all the method and system of an Order Book proper, and shows distinctly that on the Treasury side the Order Book system was only just emerging and shaping itself. When, in the later volumes, the Order Book has attained its proper form, it pays no attention to minutes of meetings, or dates of meetings, or names of commissioners present, or to any attempt to list the orders under heads. It simply enters, or is an entry book of, orders all treated alike in method of compression or docqueting in entry, and in a continuous, but by no means chronological series. The development of this system from the more inchoate system perceptible in Vol. I. just described, can be traced through the few succeeding early Order Books.

Vol. I. extends from May 1667 to 8 October 1668.

Vol. II. extends from 1668, June 5, to 1670. At first it adopts the minute book or journal form, like Vol. I. giving the dates of meetings and the names of commissioners present, and with the orders drawn up more in the form of a list than in docquet form. But only partially following out this method, the volume concludes with orders classified under the head of the revenues on which they were charged. The volume is lettered on the outside "Book of orders for payments out of branches of the revenue."

Vol. III. 1669–70, January 1, to 1671, June (?) has lost the minute form entirely, and gives throughout lists of orders classified according to revenues charged, like the second half of Vol. II.

Vol. IV. 1679, April 8, to 1682, April 27. Consists of money orders generally without either the minute book form or the above classification as to funds.

On page 12 there is the following instance of a letter (or clause) of direction added in the margin at the side of the order to which it refers (see infra, p. xxxviii.) :—

"Thus directed.—Let one hundred pounds in further part of this order be satisfied out of the 6,000*l.* which Richard Kent Esq. Receiver General and Cashier of His Majesty's Customs and New and Additional Duties, Monies &c. is to pay into the Receipt of the Exchequer this week upon his account." (4 signatures.) 27 May 1679.

The volume concludes with 20 or more pages of tabulated "Orders registered on the sum of 206,462*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* for paying off and disbanding the forces raised since 29 September 1677 pursuant to an Act of Parliament made in the 31 year of His Majesty's reign," and a list of orders payable out of loans on the same.

Vol. V. 1682, May 8, to 1684–5, February 6, opens with the copy of an order of 1664 which has led to the wrong dating of this volume in the lists.

The whole of the volume is exactly in the style of the later order proper—the Order Books calendared in these pages for example. Further, this volume forms the direct predecessor to Vol. I. of the present enumeration of Order Books which begins, see below, in February 1684–5.

The succeeding four volumes, which make up the set of early miscellaneous Order Books and intercept between Vol. V. of that series and Vol. I. of the new, general or modern series, are stray volumes of miscellaneous character and date and ought not so to intercept.

They are as follows :—

Vol. VI. 1692–3, March, 1695–6, February, lettered "Order Book for Loans," consists of lists of orders upon loans on various funds, classified and scattered through the volume under certain heads, according to the funds charged.

Vol. VII. 1695, April, to 1697, July, lettered or headed "Loans in the Exchequer in General," but in reality is classified exactly in the style of Vol. VI.

Vol. VIII. 1696, December (?), to 1699, December (?), is exactly in the style of VI. and VII. 1741, February and March.

Vol. IX. 1741, February and March, lettered "Order 1742," almost blank.

Present series (new enumeration "General" Letter Book).

Vol. I. 1684–5, February, to 1686, December, and so on through succeeding volumes to modern times in the form already described under Vol. V. supra.

Public Disposition Book (referred to in the present Calendar as Disposition Book). This series is continuous to modern times in one enumeration. It presents much more difficulty than either of the two parallel sets of Money or Order Books.

After the despatch of the Auditor's order to the Teller of the Receipt a further formality of a letter of direction came to be essential to the completion of a transaction involving payment of money from the Receipt of the Exchequer. Theoretically the Disposition Books contain the entries of such "letters of direction." During a certain period in and subsequent to the reign of Charles II. and up to the time of the consolidation of the nation's revenue and debt, some direct indication from the Lords of the Treasury was needed as to the particular fund out of which any prescribed payment was to be made. This indication was contained in the "letter of direction" which was forwarded from the Lords of the Treasury to the Auditor of the Receipt.

An inspection of the list and contents of the "Early Money and other Warrants" above, p. xxix.–xxxi. will afford some idea of the variety of funds on which payments might be charged and some justification for this device of a letter of direction. The substance of such a letter of direction, added in memorandum form to the record of the originating money warrant, has been already noted, p. xxxvii. and p. xxviii. But in the period covered by the present volume of Calendar, there is no trace in either the Money Book or Order Book of such separate letter of direction, the Auditor's order generally running for the payment of such a sum "out of such His Majesty's treasure as remains in your charge," while the text of the Money Book warrants generally runs . . . "out of any money in the Receipt of the Exchequer applicable to the uses of His Majesty's civil Government." In the case of payments out of particular revenues, e.g. the revenues of South Wales, the warrants in the Money Books are directed to the auditor of that particular revenue, who in his turn has to make forth debentures on the receivers of that revenue, "and you and the receivers of South Wales are hereby required to make immediate payment thereof out of such money as shall remain in your hands more than sufficient to pay and discharge all other demands on the said revenues of South Wales."*

* Money Book XXXV. p. 275.

At other times the substance of the letter of direction is incorporated in the Treasury warrant in some such form as the following:—

"And let the said order or orders be satisfied by weekly or other payments out of the moneys arisen or to arise at the Receipt of the Exchequer of or for the particular duties, revenues, funds, and other provisions appropriated for that purpose . . .*

"And let the said order be satisfied out of the arrears remaining in the Receipt of the Exchequer of His late Majesty's Civil List Revenues."†

"And let the said order or orders be satisfied by and out of the sum of 4,000*l.* set apart for that purpose, in the distribution of the Aggregate Fund for the Bank and others at Michaelmas last."

Quite corresponding to this is the form adopted in 1667, where again it occurs, as in this instance, as a clause in the Treasury warrant, and not as a separate "letter of direction." . . . "That you deliver and pay of such His Majesty's treasure in your charge, that is to say, of the last 10 months' tax of the 11 months' tax for 1,256,347*l.* 13*s.* granted to His Majesty by an Act of the late Session of Parliament."

A detailed examination of the earliest existing volumes throws some additional light on this system.

Vol. I. covers 1678–9, March 1, to 1680, September 20. Lettered on side "entering L^res^ for disposeing money atc the Exchequer." Page 11 is headed:—

"The distribution of the 11,000*l.* paid by Mr. Duncombe on Custom, &c. loans." Then follow the names of 10 recipients of different sums, totalling 11,000*l.*

* Money Book XXXV. p. 278. † Ibid, p. 318.

"The distribution of the 800*l.* to bee paid into the Exchequer out of the surplus of the Excise over and above the 20,000*l.*"

Then follow names as above. Each memorandum or form of account is signed by Hy. Guy and directed to Sir Robert Howard, Auditor of the Receipt, and dated. Then follow two or three pages devoted to payments from Hearth money in a list form.

From pages 21 onwards there succeed the full texts of letters of direction in the following style:—

Disposition of p^t of 12,000*l.* Mr Kent and Duncombe's loan on the 104th order.

SIR ROBT. HOWARD,

SIR,

March 2, 1679.

All the subsequent entries in this volume are in the form of such letters entered according to date, i.e. the arrangement is not that of a classification according to funds, but that of a chronological entry of letters. The most general style of letter is as follows :—

Sir Tho. Windham and Mr. Robinson	SIR, THE Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury desire you out of loans made by Mr Kent and Mr Duncombe the 4th instant to pay off Sir Thos Windham's warrant of the 27th of April for 300*l.* and Mr Robinson's order of the 19th February last for 184*l.* I am, &c. HEN GUY. 17 May 1680. [To Sir Rob. Howard.] (P. 39.)

Vol. II. covers 1680, October 5, to 1684, September 24. It opens in a different form from that of Vol. I. Two sides of the book are employed.

Privy Seal dormant of such a date, for so much.	Payments charged thereon, and exhausting same.

Roughly, this form continues to page 25, when the chronological series of letters of disposition or direction recommences. Almost all are directed to Sir Robert Howard, but a few are found directed to the Commissioners of Customs or Excise containing schemes for the disposition of, say, a particular (past or coming) week's Excise, as below.

Vol. III. as before, opens with two pages of dormant Privy Seals of such and such dates with the payments charged thereon. Then succeeds a fresh pagination with the recommencement of the chronological series of letters of disposition, as before.

This volume should be numbered IV. as it covers 1684–5, February 20, to 1686, July 1.

The following are instances of letters of disposition directed to the Commissioners of Excise or Customs.

Which sum his Lord^p directs you to charge in the Exchequer; but if you have already paid the money, then you are to deliver to the Tellers the acquittances of the respective persons above-mentioned, who are to receive the same in lieu of the money, to the end they may have regular vouchers when the Privy Seals and other warrants can be passed to issue the same there in due form. Also his Lordship doth further direct you to pay into the Exchequer all the money of your receipt as formerly.

I am, Sir,
Yours, &c.

To Mr Kent. H. GUY.

Vol. IV. covers 1684, September 30, to 1684–5, February, and contains letters of disposition as before.

This volume should be numbered III.

Vol. V. covers 1686, July 1, to 1687, April 19. Letters of disposition as before, with letters of direction as to weekly disposition of Customs.

Vols. VI. and VII. follow Vol. V. in an exactly similar way, but from Vol. VIII. (1689, April, to 1690, August) onwards the majority of the letters prescribe payments "out of any money remaining in the Exchequer not appropriated."

The vast majority of entries, for example, in Vol. XXIX. (the volume of the Disposition Books dealt with in the present instalment of Calendar) are of this nature, being letters of direction for payments of particular sums out of unsatisfied orders, or "out of any money in the Receipt of the Exchequer applicable to the uses of His Majesty's civil Government." In addition to these there are, but in smaller proportion, letters directing payments out of certain surpluses detailed, or out of particular sums in Exchequer bills, say, on malt, placed as so much cash in the Teller's Office at the Exchequer, or out of money remaining in the Exchequer of the Sinking Fund, or out of "the sum appropriated for the discharge of the 1710 lottery annuities" or out of loans on land tax and so on.

The subsequent history of the Disposition Books may be given in a sentence. The series is continuous and uniform to 1763, at which time a bifurcation took place by the institution of a separate Disposition Book for the Civil List, and the general series came to an end in 1834 with the abolition of the old Exchequer system.

The difficulties which the Disposition Books present throughout their whole period are (1) the uncertain duplication with Money and Order Books, including the apparent existence of letters of direction or disposition which have no Treasury money warrants or Auditors' orders corresponding thereto; (2) the uncertain aspect of some of the letters, i.e. as to their regarding the debtor or creditor side of the particular fund or transaction, e.g. a letter of direction as to the disposition of an ensuing week's Excise may be regarded from some points of view as instituting debtor, and not creditor items; (3) generally the fact that the precedent Treasury Money Warrant addressed to the Auditor contained a clause of direction which would imply all that was needed in a letter of direction, making the subsequent letter of direction appear an useless duplicated formality, unless that letter of direction is to be looked upon as a rough method of checking expenditure by revenue week by week or month by month, in which case it would relate as much to revenue as to expenditure; (4) the survival of the system of Disposition Books beyond the period of the consolidation of the national revenue and expenditure.

Money matters, however, though forming the chief part of the Treasury work, do not exhaust the whole account of Treasury routine or records. And in the classes of miscellaneous books and business other than relating to money, there is noticeable the same process of growth and sub-division which has been already referred to. One large class from which several later developments spring is that of "WARRANTS NOT RELATING TO MONEY." Preceding the general series of folios bearing that title and which extends unbrokenly from 1679 to modern times there is still preserved among the Treasury records an earlier series of 12 vols. As in several cases already noted, these earlier volumes contain the key to much of the later developments in more miscellaneous classes of Treasury Books, and deserve a detailed examination.

Vol. I. is labelled "mixt entries" and opens unceremoniously with letters dating from 1667, June 18, but instead of being signed by the Secretary, these letters are signed or initialled by the Lords Commissioners themselves. Then follow petitions with Treasury minutes and orders of reference and reports thereupon, warrants for the release of prisoners and for stay of process, letters about legal proceedings, bonds, covenants or leases, warrants for money, orders for extent, letters relating to the Act of Navigation, loans from the East India Company, or for passing leases through offices without fees, orders of suspension of officers, orders to the Master of the Mint and so on. The last entry is dated 8 September 1671.

Vol. II. covers 1667, June 6, to 1670, July 13. It is lettered on the side "Royal aids, poll and 11 months' tax," and contains warrants against receivers for detaining sums on the royal aid, and letters as to same or as to hearth money.

Vol. III. continues Vol. II. being concerned with the royal aid, and covering 1670, July 18, to 1671, September.

Vol. IV. covers 1667, June 6, to 1671, September 26. It is lettered "Hearth Money Book," and contains warrants and letters as before, signed by the Lords Commissioners on fire hearth money.

Vol. V. covers 1667, June 21, to 1670–1, January. It is lettered "Lands and fee farms," and contains warrants and letters as before, addressed to the Auditor of the Duchy of Cornwall, and leases, letters concerning the royal woods and crown revenues, and constats and particulars as to values, addressed to the Receiver of the King's Revenues and the Surveyor General of Woods, together with orders of reference of petitions for leases and reports thereon. This volume therefore forms one of the broken links in the chain connecting the early Treasury documents of Charles II.'s reign with the later Crown Lease Books. This particular volume, however, is a miscellaneous Entry Book of letters and warrants as well as leases, rather than, like the later Crown Lease Books proper, a book of crown leases purely and of particulars, constats and reports concerning leases.

Vol. VI. covers 1670–1, January, to 1671, September, and like No. V. is labelled "Lands and fee farms," but it shows some development and advance upon that volume in being almost entirely like the later Crown Lease Books, i.e. in being restricted to reports, particulars, constats and warrants relating to royal leases.

Vol. VII. covers 1667, July, to 1671, July. Is lettered on the side "J. Samper, first fruits, issues of jurors, butlerage, alnage, faculties, Tenths."

The entries are mostly of warrants signed by the Lords of the Treasury, but the volume is almost entirely blank; about 20 pages at the end are devoted to receivers of the tenths, and cover the above-mentioned date. The warrants and letters are as above, i.e. none of them are money warrants.

Vol. VIII. covers 1668, May 19, to 1671, September 7. It is lettered "Warrants on the Acts for impositions on wines," &c. There are some letters and commissions relating to appointments in the volume, but most of the warrants are for payment of money pure and simple.

Vol. IX. covers 1668, July 7 to 21, Charles II. Is lettered "Book of entries of the business of the Alienation Office." The volume contains only yearly accounts of the Alienation Office expenditure.*

Vol. X. covers 1669, September, to 1672–3, February. It is lettered "Affaires relating to His Majesties revenues late in joynture to the Queen's mother."

The volume begins with two royal warrants, then follow Treasury warrants, some of a general nature, but most concerning payments, and letters signed by the Treasury Lords, but most of the volume consists of royal sign manuals countersigned by the Lords of the Treasury for payments out of revenues late in jointure to the Queen mother, deceased.

Vol. XI. covers 1671, October, to 1672, May. It is lettered at the side "General booke of warrants not relating to money (16), 71, 72."

The entries in this volume are of warrants relating to borrowing of money, custody of persons, securities of receivers and officers, stay of process in the Exchequer Court, instructions to officials, grant of wood out of royal forests for bridges, &c. letters relating to hearth money, appointments of land waiters, sales of fee farm rents, orders for arrests, orders to the farmers of the Customs to forbear payments to certain persons, petitions with references, reports and warrants thereon, and so on. This is therefore an Entry Book proper of "Warrants not relating to money," and so the direct precurser of the general series bearing that title.

Vol. XII. covers 1684–5, February, to 1686–7, January, and contains only various royal warrants (not Treasury warrants at all) of the reigns of Charles II. and James II. mostly the latter.

To these volumes succeed the general series of "Warrants not relating to money," beginning with a fresh enumeration.

Vol. I. covers 1679, March 29, to 1681, August 20, the succeeding volumes presenting an unbroken series to the present day.

Besides the general matter of these volumes which will be found illustrated by the present Calendar (including, e.g. Excise matters, warrants relating to the appointment and superseding of receivers, gifts of timber felled for particular purposes, methods of charging Commissioners of Customs with money, stay of Exchequer process, warrants for sale of tin, instructions for forests, and so on), the earlier volumes of this general series contain directions to the Surveyor General for taking particulars of leases and entries of such particulars and constats and warrants of lease just in the manner of the later Crown Lease Books.

This examination of the early series of "Warrants not relating to money" reveals therefore the fact that at least two later series take their origin from them, viz. Crown Lease Books and Tax Books; and that for a time also the same series comprised what would otherwise have been expected to occur as a separate set of documents, viz. Excise books.

Crown Lease Book.—Vol. I. of this series of records opens with an entry of date 1726–7, January 23, and together with a portion of the succeeding volume covers the period treated of in the present instalment of Calendar. It is possible that Vol. I. is not the first specific Crown Lease Book, as it opens without memorandum of any kind; but whether so or not, preceding entries relating to crown leases up to about the year 1726 are to be looked for in the series of "early Money and other warrants" (see pp. x.–xiii. supra) and of "Warrants not relating to money" (see p. xlv. supra). The later history of the series is given by Mr. Black in his report (Deputy Keeper's Report VII. App. II. p. 18). In the volume of these records treated in the present Calendar (Vols. I. and II.) there is an interesting and apparently complete set of entries relating to the sale of the French lands in St. Christopher; all these entries occur in situ in the following pages.

"Taxes," "Affairs of Taxes," or "Tax Book."—This series originated as a separate one in 1703–4. Previous to this date subject-matter similar to that of such books is to be looked for as above indicated (pp. xii. xxx. xlix. supra), i.e. mostly in the series of "Warrants not relating to money."

Vol. I. covers 1703–4, January to 1710, July, and contains commissions to surveyors of taxes, &c. and dormant warrants from the Lord High Treasurer for surveyors' salaries, petitions from proposing receivers, reports from agents of taxes on the securities offered by such receivers and warrants from the Lord High Treasurer to the Queen's Remembrancer in the Exchequer to take such securities.

Vol. II. covers 1710, April, to 1723, April, is labelled "Taxes, Customs, securities, warrants, references," and is entirely like No. 1 in subject-matter.

Vol. III. covers the period of the present Calendar. As already noted the petitions of receivers of taxes are occasionally entered in the Register of Papers, leading to a duplication of that series with the Tax Books.

There remains for consideration five very important series of records, which have a less close and intrinsic connexion with the Treasury than the various series hitherto described. This arises from the fact that they represent or record business originating not with and in the Treasury, but with the King himself, or with some department, or otherwise generally outside the Treasury. Undoubtedly the most important of these is the series of KING'S WARRANT BOOKS. This magnificent series of records is practically unbroken from 1679, when Vol. I. of the present enumeration begins, to the present. The volumes contain letters patent, Privy Seals, royal sign manuals or warrants under the royal sign manual relating to commissions, or salaries, or pensions, or payments of money to ambassadors, colonial governors, &c. or by way of royal bounty, royal charity to London poor, to the Universities, to provincial boroughs, or royal presents to foreign potentates and so on.

The subsequent history of these records is given by Mr. Black, ubi supra, p. 15. But the opinion there expressed that the series took rise in 1671 is refuted by the existence of a single volume which precedes Vol. I. of the general enumeration as above. This volume is lettered "Privy Seals and King's Warrants," and covers 1667, June 10, to 1670, June 14. It contains Privy Seals addressed to the Lords of the Treasury to make payment of money, Privy Seals for pensions, annuities, for the free passing of ambassadors' wines, for loans upon Customs farms, warrants for the Privy Purse, or for revoking leases or for granting lease of the coinage duty or pre-emption of tin, Privy Seals dormant, Privy Seals for registering orders on the Excise, royal sign manuals, &c. But the vaster proportion of the volume is taken up with royal orders, &c. relating to money, and to all intents and purposes the volume is a King's Warrant Book equally with any of the series from the enumeration of which it is excluded, pointing conclusively to the fact that the King's Warrant Books equally with the Treasury Minute Books, and the Order Books and others originated in the same period, 1667, which saw the birth of practically the whole later Treasury organisation.

Customs Book.—Exactly the same remark as above applies to this series of records. The "general" series of Customs Books begins with Vol. I. in July 1681, and continues unbroken to present times, being styled "Customs" up to 1801, and thenceforward "Customs and Excise," matters relative to the Excise during the intermediate period, 1681–1800, being entered in the "Warrants not relating to money." But equally here there is in existence an earlier series serving to cover the period 1667-81, intermediate between the systematic organisation of the Treasury and the first volume of the general series and showing that like the King's Warrant Books and others, the Customs Books originated in 1667.

This early series is as follows:—

Vol. I. covers 1667, May 30, to 1671, September 13. It is lettered "Customs," and contains letters to the farmers of the Customs all of general import, letters to collectors, warrants for the seizure of prohibited goods, warrants for horses, for ambassadors' wines, for seizures under the Act of Navigation, and so on, almost entirely in the style of the Customs Book calendared in these pages.

Vol. II. covers 1669, August 13, to 1691, August 29. This is a Money Book proper, and contains only money warrants from the Treasurer or Lords of the Treasury to Sir Robert Long or other Auditor of the Receipt, or to the Farmers of the Customs.

Vol. III. covers 1675, April to December. This is a Customs Book proper, quite in the style of Vol. I. just described, and of later volumes, with the single exception that it contains entries of a few crown leases.

Vol. IV. covers 1679, March 27, to 1681, June 28. Is also a Customs Book proper as before, but contains a few documents relating to the Navy Commissioners.

Vol. V. covers 1667, May 30, to 1671, August 23. Relates entirely to Excise.

Vol. VI. is almost entirely blank, containing only two indentures relating to the lease of the London Excise, 1 September 1670, and the Commission of Excise of the 4th September of the same year.

Lord Chamberlain's Warrant Book. — These volumes possess a curious interest, quite out of proportion to the size of the series as a series. There are only four volumes altogether, covering from 1715 to 1834, of which Vol. I. extends to April 1734. They contain entries of warrants from the Lord Chamberlain to the Master of the Great Wardrobe for the provision of furniture to the royal palaces, for the painting of the staircases at Windsor, or for the provision of necessaries attending the King's removal from one place to another, and so on. On account of their curiosity these entries are generally given in full in the following pages. From 1834 onwards the business of the Lord Chamberlain's Department is recorded in the General Letter Book (Fourth Division).

Irish Book.—The general series of these books begins with Vol. I. in March 1683–4, and extends unbroken to modern times. The volumes contain entries of warrants, letters, and miscellaneous documents relating to Ireland, petitions, with reports and documents thereon, from the Lords of the Treasury to the King, or from the Lord Lieutenant to the Lords of the Treasury, letters from the Secretary of the Treasury in London to the Commissioners of Revenue, Ireland, or to the Lord Lieutenant, warrants for pensions on the Irish Establishment, or for the free importation of arms for regiments, or for exemption from certain taxes, and so on. Antecedent to Vol. I. however, there are three surviving volumes of an earlier period, lettered 1[a–c], which serve to carry back the general series to near the year 1667.

1[a] covers 1669, June 23, to 1671, June, with one or two entries of 1675, October, and contains entries relating to the lease of the Customs farm, reports to the King from the Lords of the Treasury concerning proposed pensions, drafts of warrants, orders in Council touching Irish arrears, letters to the Lord Deputy, docquets of warrants containing commissions, and so on.

1[b] covers 1679, May, to 1682, August. It contains petitions, references and reports, allowances of payments by the Lord Lieutenant, minutes of the Treasury Board relating to Irish matters, and so on, most of the volume being taken up with petitions and copies of papers relating to them.

1[c] covers 1682, August, to 1683–4, March, and is therefore directly antecedent to and continuous with Vol. I. of the general series. Its contents are exactly like those of 1[b] and of 1 of the general series, viz. preponderatingly petitions rather than letters, though there are also entries relating to establishments, pensions, ships, military and civil affairs, and instructions for the Commissioners of the Revenue.

NORTH BRITAIN BOOK.—This series originated, as a matter of course, at the Union, with the establishment of a Scottish Exchequer like the English, but subject, in matters of revenue, to the Lord High Treasurer of Great Britain.

Vol. I. covers 1707, April, to 1708–9, January, and the series is unbroken to modern times. The volumes contain entries of letters from the Secretary of the Treasury, or, on occasion, from the Lord High Treasurer, to the Commissioners of Customs in Scotland, reports or replies thereto, petitions for places, or exemptions from feudal dues in Scotland, with references thereof to the Barons of the Exchequer there, and reports from them, commissions for the Commissioners of Customs and Excise in Scotland, royal sign manuals and warrants for appointments there or concerning the Equivalent, accounts of crown rents in Scotland, petitions from Scotch officials with documents, warrants for the pay of the forces there, establishment bills, (salary and incidents) for Customs, Excise, and Salt, &c. abstracts of imports from North Britain into England, and so on. The entries are, fortunately, more numerous and extensive than those in the Irish Books.

The general series here described is preceded by two volumes standing outside its enumeration and lettered 1[a] and 1[b]. These two books, with any others of like nature the existence of which may be hypothecated, should probably be looked upon as King's Warrant Books for Scotland rather than as Treasury North Britain Books. And they may have sprung by a natural process from the King's Warrant Books, general series, though it would be difficult to say at what time. They are as follows:—

1[a] covers 1690, October 9, to 1691, December 15. It contains royal letters to the Privy Council in Scotland, almost all signed by Melville, to almost any effect, but chiefly administrative, e.g. ordering reprieves of persons, or the continuance of the adjournment of Parliament, warrants for the Royal Commissioners to the General Assembly, or to the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury of Scotland, ordinary payments, royal warrants for gifts of offices, docquets of warrants for gifts of patents of honour, petitions and King's letters thereupon, commissions to officers of the army, docquets of warrants for gifts of non-entry, &c.

1[b] covers 1692, October 27, to 1695–6, February, and is exactly like 1[a].

A reference to two smaller and quite subordinate classes of Records, viz. "Treasury Fee Books" and "Statements of Surpluses," will conclude this survey of the materials of the present Calendar.

Treasury Fee Book.—These volumes contain lists of all the office fees charged in the Treasury Office for the drawing, &c. of warrants, &c. The fees are entered consecutively through each month, and at the end of it summed up and divided among the recipients entitled to them. (See p. 13 of this Calendar infra.) In the present Calendar entries from these books (totals merely) will therefore be found at the end of each month. Vol. I. opens in 1711, June; and the origin of the series as a series is explained by the following memorandum prefixed to Vol. I. :—

"June 11, 1711.

"Mem^{d}.—Mr Lowndes this day acquainted me that Thomas Harley, Esq. was joined with him to attend my Lord Treasurer in the office of Secretary of the Treasury, and that from this time the office fees on all warrants to be signed (warrants signed before and now to be confirmed for issuing money, and upon which no issues had been before made, excepted) were to be divided as to the secretaries' two-thirds thereof, share and share alike, between the said Mr Lowndes and the said Mr Harley, the other one-third to the 4 clerks as usual."

Statements of Surpluses.—These volumes contain tabulated accounts or statements as to certain funds established by divers acts of Parliament for answering the payments under several heads of public expenditure. The form of the accounts, which are six-monthly, is quite stereotyped. They concern only the Aggregate Fund, the South Sea Company's Fund, and the General Fund, and conclude with a statement of the account between the Exchequer and the Sinking Fund (see p. 144 infra of the present volume).

The series consists of only five volumes, extending from 1717 to 1787, of which Vol. I. covers 1727–30. The first yearly account is for the year ending 1718, Michaelmas. The first half-yearly return is for 1723, Lady Day. They are here calendared in brief (totals only being given) because there appears to be nothing corresponding to them in the Exchequer records, or in the Pipe or Audit Office accounts.

Besides these larger classes or series of Treasury records, there are two sets of miscellanea, a proper account of which would find place in a Treasury list when printed rather than in this Introduction. Further, in the present instalment of Calendar, none of them have fallen to be considered. They will be described ambulando as they arise for consideration and calendaring.

The object of this Introduction has been first and foremost to describe the materials from which the present Calendar is compiled and to which it serves as an index, and by implication at the same time to give some account of the state of organisation of the Treasury machinery and book-keeping as it existed in the years covered by the present instalment. This latter purpose would involve, and has involved, something of a retrospect to carry back the lines of Treasury growth to the important year 1667, when it was practically first established in anything like completeness of organisation. Such a retrospect and account of the growth of the official machinery and system of the Treasury would be in itself of great interest to the historical student, but besides being of too special a nature and too large in itself to be fitly treated in an Introduction to a volume of Calendar, dealing with a colourless period such as 1729–30, there is the further impediment that it is too difficult a work to be properly accomplished in the absence of a Calendar of all of the above described material, which covers the period of that growth. For the period of Laud's and Juxon's Treasury administration, and again for the period 1660–1728, there is a mass of material amongst these records as valuable as it is vast, valuable in itself historically, especially in the series extending into the reigns of Charles I. and II. and valuable further for this special purpose of tracing the development of the Treasury system from what is practically its birth time. All this material from 1634–1728 is as yet untouched, the existing Calendar, up to the date at which the present volume begins, dealing only with the class of Treasury Board Papers.

TREASURY BOOKS AND PAPERS.

[? July 19.] 1. Petition of John Lawton to the Lords of the Treasury regarding the removal of records into the Chapter House. During the last session a committee of the House of Lords several times viewed the records in the Chapter House, and reported favourably on the conveniences made for disposing them and for the reception of other records, and on petitioner's method in digesting same, together with their opinion of the necessity of removing records in several other places, now in confusion, into said office to be methodised and more securely kept. Petitioner has received from the Clerk of the House of Lords two orders, one relating to the removal of some of the records referred to, the other directing the representatives of Mr. Churchill, deceased, to deliver certain manuscript volumes said to have been formerly purchased by the Treasury.

Prays direction on the whole and some further allowance, as the addition of the records referred to will more than double those already in the Chapter House, and greatly exceed those reposited in any other office. 1 page.

Appending: (a.) Report, dated 1728, May 25, of the Lords' Committee, through Lord Delawarr.

The repairs and conveniences have been made in the office of Parliament, and the Journals, Acts of Parliament, and other books and papers of the Parliament Office are now in the greatest order and safety. The conveniences, as directed, at the Chapter House for the reception of records lying in great disorder in rooms adjoining the House have been made. The King's Bench and Common Plea Rolls, from Edward I. to Henry V. and the Assize and Quo Warranto rolls of Henry III. Edward I. II. III. are sorted, and of the last good extracts made. Accommodation is made for the records of the Court of Requests lying in a room adjoining the Lords' House. The records of the Court of Wards and Liveries, and a vast number of others, lying over the gateway leading into the New Palace Yard, and a roomful of King's Bench and Common Plea proceedings now lying over the Commons' House in dust and rubbish, should be at once removed to the Chapter House. Propose the addition of two clerks and an assistant, and the advisability of a yearly report to the House of the progress made in cleaning and making indexes. Several MS. volumes of records of the late Mr. Rymer, which Mr. Awnsham Churchill, deceased, in whose custody they then were, was formerly directed to leave with Mr. Incledon, housekeeper of the House of Lords, are still in the hands of the representatives of Churchill, though purchased by the Treasury for public use. Order must be taken herein. 4½ pages.

(b & c.) Orders of the Lords of 1728, May 25, ordering the regulations as proposed above, and also representing the report to the King. 3 pages.

Minuted:—My Lords do not think fit to grant any further allowance. [Treasury Board Papers CCLXV. No. 47*a.*]

Appending:—Memorial from Richard Topham, Keeper of the Records in the Tower [to the Lords of the Treasury], complaining that "the records in the White Tower suffer very much on account of the dust arising from a broken earthen floor which is desired may be boarded over, and that the windows there may be so altered as to keep out the wet; and the leads over Wakefield Tower to be mended; and that the three small places in Wakefield Tower may be made more convenient for the better disposing of some records there; and that a window may be made in one of them, and also a leaden pipe put up to carry the water from January 2. 7. John Scrope to the Commissioners of Excise in Scotland:—"Having read to the Lords of the Treasury your representation of 1728, September 3, setting forth that you apprehend there may be some danger for the revenue under your management to give too much credit to the Old Bank of which you neither know their fund nor the use they have made of their credit, and therefore you have cautioned your cashier and the collectors to be upon their guard, seeing such as had the notes of that bank (when they stopped payment) endeavoured by a legal prosecution upon them to recover payment [but] did not meet with success, the Lords of Session having adjudged that no summary execution could pass thereupon as in other cases, by which the possessor of such notes is subject to a long and expensive process before any recovery can be had, and therefore you desire their Lordships directions in the premises." . . . . Their Lordships have directed a minute to be made that they are of opinion that the notes of the said Old Bank ought not to be received in the revenue. The Commissioners of Excise are to govern themselves accordingly.

15. Memorial of John Conduitt, Master and Worker of the Mint, to the Lords of the Treasury. The warrant for coining copper money under the late King's sign manual of 1717, September 13, expired by the late King's demise, and a profit having accrued to the public out of the said coinage, and there being a great demand at present for farthings and halfpence, begs a renewal of the warrant. Represents that under the regulation of the last copper coinage, it was intended that the importers of copper should deliver it in bars so well cleansed and scoured that the moniers would only need to cut out the blanks. In the contract, the importers Applebee and Hines were allowed 1*s.* 6*d.* per lb. weight accordingly, but upon trial they could not deliver the copper prepared as stipulated. A deduction of a penny per lb. weight had to be arranged for the mint's extra charges of nealing, flatting, scouring, blanching, barrelling, and for waste. has resided several years in Virginia, viz. that the leaves of the tobacco plant which grow next the ground are so spotted and injured by rain and dirt that they are unfit for any market in the entire leaf; but while the planters were at liberty to take out the stalk, they separated the good from the bad, and packed only that fit for sale promiscuously in the hogshead; but they are now obliged to throw them away, or dispose of them to the sailors at very low prices. Appending:—The memorial of the Commissioners for Customs to the Lords of the Treasury with regard to the law of 12 Geo. I. relating to the seizure of tea, coffee, brandy, &c. and foreign exciseable liquors and tobacco generally, and for the public sale of same; upon which law the Barons of the Exchequer settled a form of judgment for the condemnation and disposal of the said goods "by which the Commissioners of the Customs seem to be chargeable with the goods and the produce, whereas we have only caused the several methods prescribed by the said Act to be pursued by the officers concerned as being managers of his revenue, as had been formerly practised with respect to seizures of almodes, lustrings, and East India goods prohibited to be used or worn in this kingdom, which are by the several laws to be publicly sold and the King's part paid into the Exchequer." By his Majesty's Commission the Commissioners are discharged from being accomptants. In this they are supported by the opinion of the Attorney General. Further represent that the method hitherto used since the passing of 12 Geo. I. with respect to the seizures of such enumerated goods has been for the warehouseman of London port, who is deputy to the Collector inwards, to sell the goods publicly in the Long Room at the Custom House, and for him by order of the Commissioners to pay the respective officers their shares, and the remainder, after charges deducted, into the receipt of the Exchequer. His Majesty has a full moiety of the gross sale paid into the Exchequer, the officers have one-third of the said sale clear of charges, "and out of the remainder we find by the experience of a year and a half there will be enough to pay the law charges and other expenses, and we hope there will be at the end of each year a surplus to be paid into the Exchequer towards his Majesty's Civil List." Therefore pray their Lordships to empower the Collector inwards of London port to receive the money arising by the sale and to appoint some person to whom the collectors in the out ports may be directed to remit the King's part of such goods to pay the same as the Act directs, for which post they recommend Mr. William Hinton, deputy to the Register of Seizures.

February 13. 80. Report of the Salt Commissioners to the Lords of the Treasury. There are no laws relating to the salt duties that are expired or near expiring. But a clause for further securing the duties on salt, by taking away all doubts concerning the allowances to be made for waste on salt carried coastwise for export and on salt exported to Ireland, is very necessary. In some places the exporters of salt beyond sea ship it first to be carried coastwise, claim an allowance of 3 bushels in 40 for waste, and get a certificate for same from the collector. They then ship the remainder and have a debenture to draw back the duty on it. The debenture and certificate for waste amount to more than the duty. They also demand 4 bushels in 40 for waste on salt exported to Ireland. The actual waste is not 1 bushel in 40. 2 pages.

February 18. 86. Report of the Barons of the Exchequer in Scotland to the Lords of the Treasury on the memorial of John Earl of Breadalbane to the same. The Earl is liable to the Crown for 19*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.* per annum for Feu and Blench duties for the lordship of Disheor and Foyer, lands of Ardtalnaig ("Ardtollany") and others in the county of Perth. These have been sometimes remitted by the Crown. In 1713, Queen Anne remitted 13 years arrears of them. They are now 10 years in arrear. It appears by the declaration of 1716, May 2, of Colonel Alexander Campbell, of Fanal, captain of an independent company, that he was sent for by the Earl's lady in December 1715, to occupy his house of Finlarig, in Perth, in order to hinder the men of Breadalbane from joining the rebels as she was informed they designed. This he did with his independent company and 400 militia, and thereby broke the designs of the rebels on the Breadalbane men. The said Earl also sustained a considerable loss by this garrisoning of his house by His Majesty's forces. Dated Edinburgh Exchequer Chamber. 1½ pages.

Appending:—The petition of the Earl of Breadalbane, with reference of same, dated 1728–9, January 1, from the Treasury to the Barons of the Exchequer in Scotland. 1 page.

Minuted:—1729–30, January 7. Read and ordered.

[After Feb. 18.] 87. Memorial on the behalf of John Scott, of Ancrum, Esq. The keeping up a stone bridge over Ale Water near the parish church of Ancrum, Roxburghshire, is necessary for the communications of the eastern and western parts of the shire and of Dumfries with Berwick, in case of any flood of waters.

The present old bridge of four stone arches and three large pillars is so ruinous that it will require 199*l.* 10*s.* to repair. By the law of Scotland this is chargeable on the county, but is too large a sum to be raised at once by reason of the smallness of the sum the county is empowered to raise at a time for such uses.

1728–9.

Petitioner is liable to the Crown for 27*l.* 15*s.* 6⅔*d.* per annum, being part of the revenues of the late Bishop of Brechin, and is in arrear 222*l.* 4*s.* 5⅓*d.* on this account. His Majesty's bounty might well discharge petitioner of these arrears on his giving security to mend the bridge. The Barons of the Exchequer of Scotland recommended this in their report to the Lords of the Treasury of date 1728–9, February 18, and petitioner has since provided materials for the repair, but notwithstanding is distressed by the collector of the bishop's rents for payment of the arrears. Prays a discharge as above. 1 page.

Enclosing (a) and (b):—Report as above from the Barons of the Exchequer of Scotland to the Lords of the Treasury, in duplicate. 2½ pages. [Treasury Board Papers CCLXX. 27.]

February 19. 89. Memorial of John Earl of Rothes on the balances of his accounts as Chamberlain of Fife and Strath Earn, for which his father John Earl of Rothes was accomptable in the Court of Exchequer at Scotland, which Her late Majesty discharged, since which there has been a further charge on himself of 1,762*l.* 1*s.* 7⅙*d.* sterling, as the balance of the lordships of Fife and Strath Earn for the years 1721–7, and of 149*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*$\frac{5}{12}$d. sterling as the balance of the county of Aberdeen, from Whitsunday 1721, and of 129*l.* 6*s.* 10*d.* sterling as the balance of the county of Fife from the same date; and praying a discharge of the same: read and referred to the Barons of the Exchequer in Scotland by the Lords of the Treasury. [North Britain Book IX. p. 243.]

February 20. 90. J. Scrope to Mr. Buckley for the insertion of the following in the next "Gazette."

"The R^t^ Honble the Chancellor of His Majesty's Exchequer having received a letter signed Amor fiduciae, this is to acquaint the author he shall have the reward he expects punctually paid at the times and in the manner insisted upon in his letter."

[Letter Book XVIII. p. 369.]

February 20. 91. Report of the Barons of the Exchequer of Scotland to the Lords of the Treasury on the petition of John Marquis of Tweeddale. As representing his grandfather and father, sheriffs of the county of Haddington for 1694–1713 and 1714–1716 respectively, the Marquis is liable to the Crown for old Blenches, Petty Feus, Castleward, Book and Retoured duties, in all for the above period 393*l.* 12*s.* 2⅙*d.* sterling. There is an old arrear chargeable on the regality of Dunfermline, which jurisdiction now belongs to the Marquis, of 49*l.* 17*s.* 2$\frac{7}{12}$d. sterling, incurred between 1660 and 1672. His late Majesty, by warrant under his royal sign manual, granted a discharge of the said Feu, Blenches, and other duties. The court has stopped the warrant, it not being countersigned by the Lords of the Treasury. Submit it for consideration for a renewal of the warrant by His present Majesty. 1½ pages.

[Treasury Board Papers CCLXX. No. 29.]

February 20. 92. Report of the Barons of the Exchequer in Scotland to the Lords of the Treasury, on the petition of Anne, widow of Dr. Alexander Mackenzie, late collector of the rents of the Bishop of Ross. King William III. granted to Bernard Mackenzie, father of the deceased doctor, a pension of 100*l.* per annum for services performed. The pension being in arrear, the Lords of the Treasury of Scotland were directed by the King's warrant to order payment of arrears and future pension out of the Bishopric of Ross. The said Lords then appointed him chamberlain or collector of the rents of the bishopric, and to detain his pension and 50*l.* per annum till satisfaction of the arrears. Queen Anne ratified this by royal warrant of date 1702, August 25. Bernard Mackenzie died in July 1713, and in December following, the Exchequer Court granted his son Alexander commission to be chamberlain and collector in his place. He accounted for his father's rents for 1709–11, and paid a balance to the Crown of 220*l.* 8*s.* 11½*d.* On the rents, 1712–16, there is due still 220*l.* 2*s.* 1$\frac{10}{12}$d. Alexander Mackenzie died in 1722, leaving a mother, wife, and three children and no estate. Recommend the widow for charitable consideration, as process is issued against her. 2½ pages.

Appending:—Anne Mackenzie's petition and reference dated 1728, May 23 of same, by the Lords of the Treasury to the Barons of the Exchequer in Scotland. 1½ pages. [Ibid, No. 30.]

[Lord Chamberlain's Warrant Book I. 292.]

1728–9.

February 22. 95. William Bowles, solicitor to the Exchequer Court in Scotland, to ———. Notwithstanding the great appearance of business, it ended in the trial of one Custom House cause only, and though the evidence was very clear for the Crown, yet defendant was acquitted, owing, it is said, to the division in the town about the magistracy, the majority of the jury being against the present set of governors. It is impossible for the Crown to have justice done to it in any trials here. The Barons have done little in the matter of the forfeited estates, the advocate being absent, and the Court of Delegates have not finally determined one appeal. The solicitor does not intend to attend Parliament this session. It is reported he is to be advocate, the advocate president, and Lord Ilay, secretary. Mr. Brent continues much indisposed. The justice governs all the affairs of the customs in his absence.

Recommends William Mathews, the late Chief Baron's servant, for the expected vacancy in the surveyorship of the ports of Edinburgh. Hopes for leave to come south in the middle of next month. 4 pages.

Their Lordships agree; the necessary orders are to be prepared accordingly.

George Daniel called in and delivered to their Lordships a proposal for putting in execution an Act, 3 James I. for reforming the multitudes and misdemeanours of the attornies-at-law, and thereby to increase the stamp duties. Their Lordships refer said proposal to the Commissioners of the Stamp Duties.

Farnaby was constituted auditor by a constitution of 1719, May 1, and held that office till 1727, December 3. He paid 12*l.* rent for an office, and for a place for the safe keeping the boxes of vouchers, books, and papers, from time to time delivered him by the paymasters of the several lotteries from 1719, July 21, to 1728, January 21. February 27. 101. Representation of the Commissioners for licensing hackney coaches and chairs to the Lords of the Treasury, concerning the frequent complaints from licensed coachmen of the great decay of business and their low estate, the Commissioners having proof of same from the many revocations they have lately had to make on default of payment of the weekly rent on the licenses. The grievances are (1) that chairs drawn by one horse only are of late much made use of within the 10 mile radius, which deprives licensed hackney coachmen of much work; (2) great numbers of stage coaches stand in the open street and ply for fare, even going out of the way of their stages; (3) unlicensed persons let out coaches and horses by the day or hour in the way commonly called waiting jobs, and licensed men employ more coaches than they are licensed to; (4) unlicensed persons let coaches and horses for hire out of the bills of mortality, but within 10 miles of the cities of London and Westminster.

The remedies: (1) Only licensed hackney coachmen to let on hire one-horse chaises or chairs; (2) stage coaches to be set up at an inn or other place out of the common street, and to proceed in the way of their stage without plying or waiting in the streets for passengers; (3) none to drive or let to hire by the day or hour except licensed coachmen, who are to show the figure or mark of distinction belonging to the license on the door or forestandard.

Further suggest an amendment in procedure by which the master coachmen and renters of licenses may be liable for fines imposed on their men. 3½ pages.

March 18. 138. Warrant from the Lords of the Treasury to Henry Pelham, Secretary at War. The contractor for victualling the garrison at Placentia and Annapolis is to receive instructions from the Secretary at War touching the qualities of provisions to be sent yearly. He is to be directed to furnish from 1729, July 1, for no more than 360 men.

Appending:—Report from P. Medows and James Bruce, Comptrollers of Army Accounts, to the Lords of the Treasury, dated 1728–9, February 18, on a memorial on behalf of the officers of Colonel Philips' regiment to the Secretary at War. The memorial sets forth that the Treasury contracted with Mr. Missing to supply that regiment with provisions from 1720, July 1, in the several garrisons at 6*d.* per man per day, 4*d.* thereof to be stopped from their subsistence and 2*d.* to be paid by the government. Hitherto the provision has been for a full regiment, 440 men. The commission officers had refused to take or allow any stoppage to be made of that kind from the agent, and the colonels and agents men were also included and all non-effectives, so that the recruits which had been raised were charged on the officers' pay. The contract had occasioned great complaints. The officers desired to be rid of it and that Mr. Missing should be directed to send provisions for only 360 men and the Comptrollers not to allow nor the Paymaster General to stop for more. [Ibid, p. 147–8.]

139. Report from the Lords of the Treasury to the Privy Council on a representation of the States of the Island of Jersey relating to the settling the value of the English and French coin in that island, and also relating to the transmitting thither in specie the subsistence for the soldiers in garrison there.

Appending:—(a.) Report to the Lords of the Treasury, dated Mint Office, 1727, May 10, and signed by W. Cary, John Conduitt and Martin Bladen. "In obedience to your Lordships commands signified by Mr Scrope in his letter of the 25th of April [1727] we have considered the representation of the States of Jersey in relation to the several coins current in that island and having acquired the best information we could upon that subject, we beg leave to observe that the frequent alterations of the French silver coins render it highly necessary to make them current only according to their intrinsic value in proportion to the British crown piece but considering the high price gold already bears to silver in his Majesty's dominions we see no reason for lowering the British crown from 71 sols to 70, and presume it was only proposed to avoid a fraction; but we see no inconsistency in suffering the shillings to continue current at 14 sols and the sixpences at 7, the crowns at 71 sols and the half-crowns at 35½. For these two last mentioned species wear the least and are consequently in most danger of being melted down or exported.

"We have assayed some of the French Liards and find that three of them weigh four grains and a half more than one of the last coined British half-pence and that they are of an equal fineness, but as the great grievance complained of is the importation of Liards only without any gold or silver coin from France to pay the balance of trade, which as we are informed is in favour of the island, it seems advisable to reduce the Liards to their old value of 2 deniers each (at which rate they are and always have been current at Guernsey with very good effect) and to make, as is proposed, the British halfpenny current for 7 deniers and the farthing for 3½ which will encourage the importation and use of His Majesty's own copper coin."

(b.) Report from Spencer Compton to the Lords of the Treasury, dated Pay Office, Horse Guards, 1727, July 25, on the demand for the transmission of the garrison pay in specie. The order of Council was so long ago as 1690, "and it does not appear that it was then made to alter any former method of transmitting the pay of the soldiers there, or to confine it to be sent in specie: or if it is to be construed that it does, yet it does not appear to me when or for what reasons it happened that that method was not pursued . . . On the whole I cannot but observe in general that if in the present method our specie may be kept at home and the Government is at no charge and hazard in transmitting the subsistence of the soldiers, it is in those respects more eligible than to send our specie abroad at charge and hazard to the Government.

(c.) The representation from the officers at Jersey [to Walpole], dated Jersey, 1726, December 9, and signed Kempenfelt, Skyes, and J. Broughton. "The daily demonstration you give of doing all prudent acts for the good of your country emboldens us, who have the honour to command independent companies here, to this presumption. It is enacted in the Court here to petition his Majesty that the money for the three companies here may be sent over in specie. We humbly beg leave to lay before you that whatever English money comes here goes to France by reason of its trade and the advantage of the exchange and in case that any accident should happen that the money should be lost it would be very difficult for us to subsist our men till such time as the Government could be acquainted. For we are sometimes two months without any ships going to or coming from this island. The current coin here is French farthings and has been for several years and is very convenient change for the soldiers, and there is a greater demand for bills yearly than all the officers, half-pay officers and several French refugees can supply."

[Warrants not relating to money XXIV. p. 149–51.]

Appending:—Report to the Lords of the Treasury from the Earl of Halifax, dated 1728-9, February 20, "the house is in a very ruinous condition and the offices belonging to it at the bottom of the garden next the Thames are so much decayed that no use can be made of them unless they are rebuilt . . . In 1717 501*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* was allowed to the Lady Diana Fielding to satisfy the like sum spent by her former husband Thomas Howard Esq. to complete 1,901*l.* 16*s.* 3*d.* allowed him in consideration of rebuilding the house and offices belonging to him as one of the Tellers of the Exchequer."

the Lords of the Treasury. Keith was appointed Surveyor General of the Southern Continent of America in 1713–4 at a salary of 200*l.* per annum. In 1715 Mr. Birchfield was appointed to succeed him at a salary of 495*l.* per annum, being the same as was allowed to Colonel Quary, petitioner's predecessor. During his stay in office petitioner made an actual survey of all the provinces on the continent of America, viz. of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina, and laid before the Commissioners of the Customs a report of his survey, together with various propositions of several regulations amongst the officers of the Customs for the better execution of the laws of trade and navigation, which were approved. He also embarked for Jamaica, where he remained five months, in order to recover an old debt of 8,000*l.* to the Crown on prize goods taken and carried into Jamaica. This debt was in danger of being lost, but the greatest part hereof has since been paid, Keith receiving for his services 451*l.* 19*s.* 4¼*d.* Recommend payment to him of a further five per cent. on 3,964*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*, the net money paid to the Receiver General on account of that debt, which makes 198*l.* 4*s.* 4½*d.* [Customs Book XII. pp. 336–8.]

March 28. 168. Memorial of John Conduitt to the Lords of the Treasury about the Mint indenture. Since receiving directions to pass the indenture of the Mint, has had assays made here and in Holland of several gold and silver trial pieces to ascertain which is nearest standard and fittest as a pattern. By Mr. Hopton Haynes' assay, the Assaymaster at the Mint, the last silver trial piece made 1728, April 11, is standard, and the only one that is so; all the former silver ones being very erroneous, particularly that of 1688. The gold trial piece made in 1688 is exact standard according to the report from Holland, and very little better than standard according to Haynes. The last gold trial piece made 1728, April 11, is one sixth grain finer than standard, which is two pence per oz., and would be a loss of so much to every importer if the moneys are coined agreeable thereto. Proposes that the silver moneys be made according to the trial pieces of 1728, April 11, and the gold by that of 1688, "which is very exact, and the only one the gold monies have been tried by ever since it was made." Desires not to be bound to coin quarter guineas, as unserviceable. 2 pages.

April 2. 175. Warrant from Lords of the Treasury to the Commissioners of the Customs for giving to Anthony Swymmer and Charles La Porte, of London, merchant, on account of the plague being in the Currant Islands when their ship took in her lading, and in consideration of their having suffered by the delay in the sale of their goods during the examination of their casks, an allowance of the difference of the tare of the currants as contained in their petition, amounting to 116 cwts. 0 qrs. 19 lbs. yielding a duty of 85*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.*

Appending:—Report of the Commissioners of Customs to the Lords of the Treasury, dated 1728–9, March 15, on the petition of the above, which complains that the tare which has been allowed by the Crown time out of mind is 16 lb. per cwt. but contrary to the known practice, petitioners' casks have been shipped under pretence they weighed under 16 lb., and upon taking a cask on an average they weigh 13 lb. and they are refused any greater tare, although they have allowed the grocers 18 lb. per hundred according to custom. The Commissioners report that receiving information that petitioners' casks were made lighter and with heads of deal, they directed some of the casks to be tared, the merchants making choice of such casks as they thought proper, and the officers taking a like number, in order to adjust the tare, as is the constant practice when any dispute arises concerning tare. The merchants declined, and accordingly 3 butts were tared promiscuously and found to weigh 12 and 12½ lb. per cwt. They accordingly allowed 13 lb. as the turn of the scales. Usually the casks for currants tare, for butts and carrateels, 16 lb. per cwt. agreeable to the table of the usual tares and allowance in practice in the port of London printed in the book of rates, "but we take leave to inform your Lordship that the tare and allowances in that table are not established by law, but are frequently objected to by the merchants as well as the officers, and upon taxing the goods the merchants often demand and are allowed more tare as well as less, as the goods tare, of which there are divers instances." In petitioners' case the difference of the tare between 13 and 16 lb. per cwt. comes to 116 cwt. 0 qrs. 19 lbs. duty on which is 85*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.* [Customs Book XII. p. 339–41.]

Boys, of Stokes Bay, near Portsmouth, was taken on a capias, having been concerned for some years in running large quantities of wine, brandy, &c. and in Michaelmas, 1726, judgment was obtained against him for 25,515*l.* In spite of strict notice to petitioner to allow no liberty to Boys, the Commissioners received information that Boys had again made an escape and been several times at large out of prison, since he was charged in execution. The Attorney and Solicitor General being of opinion that the permitting a prisoner charged in execution to go out of prison, even if he returned again, is an escape at law, and that the warden is chargeable with the debt, the Commissioners have prosecuted petitioner for the escape. There is another prosecution ordered against him for the escape of two other persons committed for 5,820*l.* 4 pages.

Appending:—Report by Withers to the Lords of the Treasury, dated 1728, November 20. The said premises are in a very ruinous and dilapidated condition, and have from time to time been repaired by the Surveyor General of the Woods by virtue of a warrant from the Lords of the Treasury. "New Park in the New Forest is an enclosure of about 3½ miles in circumference, with a large mansion house, and several barns, stables, and other outhouses thereon. This whole enclosure is the Lord Warden's pound, wherein all the waifs and strays, which in that large forest are sometimes very numerous, are enclosed for a year or till they are reclaimed by their respective owners. The office of keeper of this pound with all perquisites thereto belonging is held by petitioner (Kingdon) during her natural life under a reservation to the Crown of competent herbage for the deer, which have free ingress and egress over the enclosure. Great part of this enclosure is kept in tillage, and the residue in pasture." Conceives it reasonable the Crown should be at the expense of repairing the premises, since petitioner's enjoyment of them is so precarious, and little has been done at them since His Majesty's accession.

April 16. 218. Carteret, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to the Lords of the Treasury, on the petition of William Molesworth, Surveyor General of Lands in Ireland. On the recommendation of the House of Commons in Ireland in 1721, the King has granted Molesworth an additional 100*l.* salary on the Civil List, Ireland. Desires preparation of proper instrument for same for royal signature. Arlington Street, April 16. 1½ pages.

Appending :—(a.) Petition of William Molesworth, Esq. Surveyor General of Lands in Ireland, to the King. Was appointed Surveyor General by letters patent under the Great Seal of Ireland in the first year of George I. His said office was confirmed by His present Majesty at his accession. The employment, though considerable in nature, has only a salary of 60*l.* per annum annexed to it, which is insufficient to support the dignity thereof, especially since the fees which were formerly belonging to it are decreased to little or nothing by an accidental fire which consumed the records of that office from which those fees chiefly proceeded. The late House of Commons in Ireland, in the session of 1721, took petitioner's case into consideration, and observing that the salary and fees of it were in no way proportionable to the great trouble, expence, and constant attendance in the due execution thereof, and the usefulness of that employment, addressed the Duke of Grafton, then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, to induce His late Majesty to grant an augmentation of salary. His Grace undertook to lay the said address and proceedings thereon before His Majesty, but the King's death put a stop to the benefit of the recommendation. Begs consideration of his case, and of the expense of his voyage hither on purpose to lay his petition and the above address of the House of Commons of Ireland before His Majesty. Undated. 1 page.

(b.) Petition of same to the House of Commons in Ireland, recapitulating his appointment in 1714, &c. as above. The office is an ancient office of Record, and of necessary use both to the Crown and subjects of this kingdom, all the maps and surveys that are now extant being kept therein. Petitioner is by his said employment obliged not only to a daily attendance, but to a great and necessary expense in employing clerks and in other contingent charges, yet the salary is only 60*l.* without any allowance for such clerks or contingencies. And the fees of the said office which were the great support thereof are become very inconsiderable by the loss the said office sustained in 1711, when several of the books, maps, and records belonging to it were burned. Prays their recommendation to the Lord Lieutenant for his interposition with the King on petitioner's behalf. Undated. 1 page.

(c.) Orders of the House of Commons, Ireland, of dates 1721, October 13, appointing a committee for the examination of the matter of the petition; October 16, ordering the recommendation as desired in the report of the committee; November 21, ordering the entry in the Journals of the Lord Lieutenant's reply to the recommendation. 3 pages.

245. David Dunbar to John Scrope. His ship for New England falls down the river next Saturday. Wants nothing to carry with him but the new Act for the preservation of the woods and for encouraging naval stores. Encloses copy of letters from his deputy. Has a memorial relating to a settlement on the east side of the river of Kennebec, which is the limit of New England Government, proposed to be made by a great many hundred families "mostly those from Ireland, who with many others who are weary of being among the obstinate people of New England desire to divide from them." It has been referred by the King to the Council. If the answer is unfavourable, they will be dispersed to other places where they will not be so useful to England. 1½ pages.
Enclosing:—(a.) Letter of Thomas Haley to David Dunbar, dated Boston, 1728–9, March 6, referring to letters from Mr. Dunbar, dated from Portsmouth and Casco Bay, who had visited the woods in Hampshire and Maine. Spite of the snow, which has drifted 15 to 20 feet deep, he and Mr. Slade have marked 580 trees, all from 24 to 34 inches diameter. "In his last letter he gives me a little historical account of his journey to and from Casco Bay and complains very loudly of the vast expense he has been at in horses and their maintenance he paying half-a-crown a night for hay, . . . whereas were we furnished with a sloop we could penetrate a great way into the country." Dunbar has been with Colonel Thomas Westbrook, agent for the contractors, who showed him the masts and bowsprits intended to be sent home. They will load two ships and are as fine as ever were seen. Dunbar has been at great pains to prevent the loggers cutting the white pine trees, but laments his want of power to prevent the destruction of the white oak with which the country abounds. They have seized 400 trees in Maine, many cut into four or five lengths called logs that otherwise would have made fine masts. "The havoc made in the woods before we came is beyond imagination. We have many enemies, but they are generally amongst that set who hold our authority in contempt as they would the Sacred Majesty from whom it is derived, among whom none are more active than one Plaisted and the famous Doctor Cook. These have industriously insinuated to the people of Maine that the King has no property in that Province. However your brother has proceeded in his duty without regard to these incendiaries and only waits a fit opportunity to seize their logs at their own mills and bring them to trial." 20 of the 200 trees seized have been found fit for the King's service. All imaginable precautions are taken to prevent the country rascals cutting them in the night. The refuse has been put up to sale, but there did not appear one bidder, so the expense of their condemnation will fall very heavy upon every seizure. 2½ pages.

(b.) Copy of a letter from Arthur Slade, dated Portsmouth, New Hampshire, 1728–9, February 28. The New Hampshire woods are quite destroyed, wholly owing to bribery and the neglect of former surveyors. From one of the most flourishing provinces in all America for masting the Royal Navy with white pine trees, there is but one vein left of about 3,000 trees, "which we shall endeavour to preserve although it will be with very great difficulty, the people being so indulged for this many years to the destruction of the woods." Having done their worst in destroying His Majesty's woods in this province the people have turned their fury on Maine. On the 25th, 26th, and 27th instant, writer and Mr. Dunbar saw 5,000 logs, mostly from 30 to 40 inches diameter, a great many of which would have made masts. "Some we seized; the rest lying on the ice in midriver we deferred marking them till they were brought down to the mills. We have put up notifications offering rewards for the discovery of offenders, but with no effect, the people in Maine seeming resolved to destroy His Majesty's right in the woods and dare any person that shall oppose them. Governor Burnett and Lieutenant Governor Wentworth have done all possible to assist us, but with little effect." The Act of 8 George I. must be strengthened by declaring the woods growing in townships to be His Majesty's undoubted right. The country abounds with a good white oak growing on a bluish clay. 3-inch oak planks can also be supplied from 30 to 48 feet long at the same price given for plank from Danzig and Poland. On the opening of the season, propose to go to Nova Scotia, but require a sloop. Hope to redeem the lost credit of former surveyors. "Our salary will not defray travelling expenses." 2¼ pages.

275. Report of Phillips Gybbon, Surveyor General, to the Lords of the Treasury, on the petition of the town of Harwich. The petition represents that the Crown has purchased certain lands and tenements there, and granted same by lease, dated 1717, July 24, to Sir Philip Parker and Thomas Heath, who have not secured the lands against the tides, and thereby the great wharf called the Custom House Quay is in danger of being washed away. Has communicated the complaint to Parker and Heath, who deny liability to make new fences against the sea. They have added two new breakwaters and a great bank of earth, at a cost of over 300*l.* They had not repaired the Custom House wharf because the Office of Ordnance had held it from the beginning of the lease till 1724. The inclusion of the Custom House, as well as the Custom House wharf, in the lessees' letters patent is a clerical error. Lessees affirm also that several persons have taken great quantities of large stones from the foot of the cliff to mend their marsh walls. Is informed by a Commission of Inquiry that on one side the Crown lands and marshes are very well protected from the sea by four shies and a long quay and wall, and on the other side by a substantial wall against Manningtree water. The cliff above the marshes has been washing away for years, and if nothing is done the town will in a few years be an island, the Harwich water and Manningtree water being within a very little of falling into each other. The great wharf is so much out of repair that were it not for the breakwater the greatest part of the town would be in danger of being destroyed. Over 9,000*l.* has been laid out by the Government in purchasing lands, &c. at Harwich for the better fortifying the place. Advises the despatch of an engineer thither to report, and that lessees be obliged to put the great wharf in as good condition as in 1717. 5 pages.

June 17. 393. Charles Carkesse to [? Scrope]. The collectors and comptrollers of the Customs at Yarmouth, by letter of the 13th instant, represent that there are great numbers of French vessels hovering on the coast between there and Newcastle, and that they lie close to the shore, and send their boats up the river, where they publicly sell their brandy. Captain Billopp, appointed by the Lords of the Admiralty to assist the officers of the Customs has been wounded; desires means to be taken to prevent such insults. 1½ pages.

Appending:—(a.) Letter from C. Billopp to Carkesse, dated "Cruizer in Tynemouth Haven," 1729, June 13. On the 7th instant, standing in for this place, saw five French smugglers, gave chase for an hour and a half, then they laid to, and after an engagement of two hours they got to windward and escaped, having wounded two men and damaged his rigging. "These French snows carry, most of them, four guns each, and 25 and 30 men, so that two of them is as good force as I am." Has several times chased four or five together off the coast, but never any lay to previously to engage him. 1½ pages.

(b.) Letter from Sam. Jacomb and John Spooner, Custom officers at Yarmouth, to the Commissioners of the Customs, dated 1729, June 13.

One who lately came from Newcastle, and was in company with some of the French, saw six sail on Tynemouth Bar. They were so audacious as to lie close ashore, and send their boats up the river and publicly sell their brandy, and to those colliers that bought they would send their men and boats to help them over the bar. He also saw six sail off Bridlington Bay. They also declared they should sail in such numbers as should enable them to defy all the men of war and Custom boats on the coast, and that they would protect and assist all English smugglers that had a design to land goods, but will not suffer the English or Dutch to sell brandy to the colliers, being resolved to have that trade to themselves. Two 20-gun ships would do more service than ten of those that are appointed against them, they being too weak, and not proper sailors to encounter the French sloops. 1½ pages.

Mr. Conduitt called in and his report of the 15th instant on the several proposals for supplying His Majesty's Mint with copper for the intended coinage of farthings and halfpence read as follows:—

"In obedience to your Lordship's order of reference of the 11th current, directing me to examine the several proposals for supplying His Majesty's Mint with copper and to report a state of the same with such observations as shall occur thereupon, I beg leave to acquaint your Lordships that several of the persons who propose to contract set forth that there are different degrees of fineness of copper, that the sort of which the last coinage was made is only melted from the ore with sea coals into cakes, but that a finer sort is made by melting those cakes over again with charcoal, and others allege that they have the art of making it as fine with sea coal as it can be made with charcoal."

"The several proposals that have been made for either of the above-mentioned sorts of copper are as follows, viz.:—

"William Wood, junr. proposes to furnish the first sort of copper, at - -	16*d.* per lb.
"John Applebee and Henry Hines, who were the contractors for the last coinage, at - -	14½*d.* „
"Thomas Briggs, at - - -	14½*d.* „
"William Boroughs, Esq. at 116*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* per ton, reckoning only 2,000 lbs. to the ton, which is -	14*d.* „
"Benj. Boss proposes to furnish copper melted with sea coal only at 130*l.* per ton, reckoning 2,240 lbs. to the ton, which is - -	14¼*d.* & $\frac{6}{7}$ of a farthing.
"Or copper melted over again with charcoal, at 140*l.* per ton, which is -	15*d.* per lb.
"William Thoyts proposes to furnish copper melted with sea coal only at 130*l.* per ton, reckoning 2,240 lbs. per ton, which is -	13¾*d.* & $\frac{5}{7}$ of a farthing.
"Or copper melted over again with charcoal, at	14½*d.* per lb.
Benjamin Robinson, on behalf of the Company of Copper Miners in England, offered in his first proposal to furnish such copper as was advertised in the 'Gazette,' at - -	15½*d.* „ 1729.

"And by a second proposal hereunto annexed, copper melted from the ore with sea coal and toughened with charcoal as far as 100 tons, at - $13\frac{3}{4}d.$ per lb.

"Sir Abraham Elton and Sir George Caswall's proposals are not expressed in the terms advertised in the 'Gazette,' but Sir Abraham Elton declares they intend to conform thereto. They propose to furnish such copper as was advertised in the 'Gazette' at - 14*d.* "

Or as low as anyone else shall propose for one year.

"Sir Abraham Elton says his copper is so much better than other copper that it does not want to be melted over again with charcoal; but that, if your Lordships think proper to have that sort, he will furnish it as cheap as any other person.

"Andrew Niblett proposes to furnish copper melted over again with charcoal, at - - 15*d.* "

"Or copper in cakes, at - - - 13*d.* "

"But declares that he will not engage that the copper he delivers at that price shall be so good as to stand the assay of the Mint.

"I humbly represent to your Lordships that to prevent any imposition of Barbary copper, the contractor or contractors may be obliged to make oath that all the copper delivered by them to His Majesty's Mint is made out of ore which is the product of Great Britain or His Majesty's plantations, for all copper which is made out of plantation ore is esteemed British copper, and the ore from New York is much better than any found here. All which is submitted, &c.

JOHN CONDUIT."

"Mint Office, 15 July, 1729."

"Their Lordships thereupon do adjudge the Company of Copper Miners in England to be the fairest bidders, and order that Mr. Conduitt do contract with the said Company for supplying His Majesty's Mint with copper at $13\frac{3}{4}d.$ per lb. avoirdupois according to their proposal upon the terms advertised in the 'Gazette' and entered in the minutes of the 4th day of March 1728–9, taking care to insert in the said contract that the Governor, or some other proper officer belonging to the said Company, do make oath before one of His Majesty's justices of the peace for the county of Middlesex that all the copper delivered by the said Company into His Majesty's Mint is, to the best of their knowledge and belief, made out of ore which is the product of Great Britain or His Majesty's Plantations abroad."

Order for the preparation of the necessary warrant for setting the said copper coinage on foot. The draft warrant to be sent to Mr. Conduitt for his perusal and approbation.

July 30. 496. Report from Samuel Horsey and Peter Leheup to the Lords of the Treasury on Richard Shelton's demands as secretary to the late Lords Proprietors of Carolina. His account for 1,567*l.* is correct. He was admitted Secretary 1708–9, February 3, his salary at first being 40*l.* "There does not appear any order for allowing him the additional 40*l.* per annum from 1711, February 12, as charged, but he alleges for a reason why that salary was granted that North Carolina was about that time separated from South Carolina and put under a distinct governor, and so required double trouble, and that Lord Carteret told him not to insert the secretary's accounts in the minute book, that it might not appear how much they were in arrear with him . . . In the subsequent accounts he continues to charge the same salaries of 40*l.* and 40*l.* per annum to the 3rd June 1723, and from that day to February 1727, when his demands cease, he charges 100*l.* per annum salary, viz. 40*l.* per annum for South Carolina and 60*l.* per annum for North Carolina. To maintain this addition of 20*l.* per annum he produces in the North Carolina book two bodies of instructions under the hands and seals of the Lords Proprietors, dated 1723, June 3; the first for George Burrington, then Governor, direct him to prepare an establishment of the salaries and expenses of North Carolina, and to charge therein, among other salaries, for their Secretary residing in London, for himself and his clerk 60*l.* per annum salary sterling money; the other instructions to Arthur Goffe, their Receiver General, direct him, among other salaries, to pay thei Secretary residing in London 60*l.* per annum. The entries of these instructions are signed in the book by the said Burrington and Goffe.

"Mr. Shelton, to maintain his charge of 400*l.* for eight years' rent of an office at 50*l.* per annum, says that the same was agreed by word of mouth to be paid him upon the Proprietors declining to keep it in their houses, as Lord Carteret had done, till he went to Sweden. He alleges he has paid that rent for a house he took in Bury Street for that purpose.

"In further proof of the truth of these accounts Mr. Shelton produces a copy of a memorial from the Lords Proprietors to the Privy Council about settling the arrears of quitrents, &c. then

The Lords Justices of Ireland have transmitted a memorial of the Commissioners of the Infirmary in Dublin proposing the building of a new infirmary at a cost of 750*l.* as the lease for the present infirmary will expire next year and the building is so old and crazy that a considerable sum would not put it into tolerable repair. They have pitched on a piece of ground that may be had at a less rent than the present infirmary. The Infirmary Fund appears to be overdrawn, but the Commissioners are of opinion that the save in repairs would soon equal the charge of the new building. The King has consented to give his royal letter of approval for their taking the ground in trust for His Majesty and going on with the building. They send their boats on shore with goods, and 12 or 14 men with pistols and swords, and sell brandy, and guard the people that buy them into the country, threatening to shoot any officer that opposes them. They told John Jewell, commander of the sloop in the service here, that if he opposes them they would take him and the sloop to France. The country people are terribly afraid of them, and dare not assist the officers. In short, the French are masters of the coast. 1 page.

Before receipt of the Commissioners' letter of November 3rd, directing an examination of the French crews lately brought into Yarmouth by Captain Edwards, the Frenchmen had left this place, so they could not be examined. "But by other information which we have gained we find the French trade from Calais with brandy on the English coast is as under, viz. :—There is at Calais 4 merchants in company, whose affairs are chiefly transacted by one Peter Live, of Calais, who fit out every summer 10 snows, from 40 to 60 tons. They provide the snows with good number of men and ammunition of war to make a vigorous defence in case of attack. When they are fit for sea then the distillers and other traders put in what brandy they please. Some 40, some 50, some 100 casks. The snows take, one with another, about 400 casks each. When loaded they come on the coast and keep within 7 or 8 leagues one of another to be ready to assist each other. The first that has sold his cargo speaks with all the rest, and takes from them what money they have received, and goes for Calais and loads again and comes on the coast. So they keep a constant round of coming with brandy and going with money. The manner of accounting with those that put on the brandy is thus: if they sell and get off well, then the several adventurers allow the merchants so much per cask for the vessel, and also allow so much per cask to the men. If the vessels are stopped by the men-of-war or Custom House boats, and they only take the goods and discharge the vessel, then the men have no pay for that voyage. They always go no purchase no pay. There are 4 other merchants that fit out 2 snows of about 30–40 tons, but the adventure is their own, and they pay the sailors in brandy, and to make them the more desperate they are to have such a number of casks of brandy after they have sold so many for their employers. They don't give their men orders to kill, but if any is taken cowardly (as they term not resisting the King's officers) they are turned out of all employ for the future." In number of men and build and manner of sailing they are superior to the stationed ships of war built to suppress them. Two 20-gun ships will do more to suppress them than 10 that are now appointed. Advises the condemning of the vessels when taken as the only way, as the loss of the brandy is not thought of. By computation there are 49,000 half-anchors of brandy yearly from France sold on this and the northern coast, besides what is sold by the Dutch doggers, who are very great traders that way. 3 pages.

December 25. 688. Abstract of the report of the Commissioners and Trustees for fisheries and manufactures in Scotland for the year ending Christmas, 1729, with accounts of the expenditure of the fund arising from the malt tax, in the improvement of fishery and in advancing the manufacture of linen and coarse wool. The scarcity of money and lowness of credit has hindered in a great measure the expected improvement of the fishery. But the fishes caught on the coast are much better cured than formerly. The linen manufacture is much improved. The manufacturers submit generally to the rules established, and the quality of linen cloth is much better than formerly. The cloth stamped for sale in the year came to 3,225,155¾ yards. The 2,000*l.* laid out in 1728, to encourage undertakers to fit up bleaching fields, has had the desired result. On the 2,000*l.* granted towards introducing the cambric manufactory they have brought over into Scotland 10 Protestant families of 33 persons. It would much conduce to the improvement of the manufacture if along with each prize that is given to the several housewives that make the best cloth, proper reeds were given to the successful weavers by way of premium, the expense of these reeds on the whole not exceeding 42*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* by estimate, viz. 3 reeds and 3 shuttles as premiums at each of the 50 stations where stampers are appointed. "They report that though the people of the country come pretty well forward in spinning linen yarn, in working the cloth and in bleaching it yet there are a great many inventions and improvements in the different branches of the trade entirely new to the people and which dry instructions without the assistance of some skilled person to help them can never bring them to. Wherefore they have looked out for a skilful person who for a yearly salary of 130*l.* is willing to settle in Scotland and to make annual progresses through the manufacturing counties to instruct the people in such parts of the mystery as are hitherto but imperfectly known to them." The machine for breaking and dressing flax invented by James Spaldin, and for which the Commissioners in 1728 made him a grant of 200*l.* is of great benefit to all farmers and would be more extensively useful if the Trustees might encourage the setting up those machines in different places of the country, which might be accomplished at a charge of not more than 100*l.* Further propose the appointment of a skilful stamp officer for inspecting and preventing abuses in the manufacture of cambrics now setting up in Scotland. 3 pages.

[? 1729.] 705. The representation of Lieutenant General Wade, Commander in Chief of all the forces, castles, forts, and barracks in North Britain, to the Lords of the Treasury. In 1725, he proposed the building of Forts Augustus and George on Loch Ness. In 1726–8 Parliament granted in all 21,000*l.* but of this only 17,500*l.* has been issued from the Treasury. 14,000*l.* is needed to complete them, which he begs. 1 page.

Appending:—A statement of the deficiency of payment as above for the year 1726. ½ page. [Ibid, No. 76.]

[? 1729.] 706. The petition of the chapel warden, overseer and inhabitants of St. John Baptist in the Savoy, to the Lords of the Treasury. Soon after the death of Dr. Samuel Pratt, which is upwards of three years, one George Parry, clerk, took possession of the chapel under pretence he should have an order from their Lordships to confirm him in it, but has produced no such order, either from the Treasury, the Bishop of London, or the Lord Chancellor. The said Parry has been and is very vexatious to the poor and has put the inhabitants to great expense. The Communion plate has been lodged in the chapel warden's hands ever since 1682, first by order of Dr. Henry Killigrew, then master of the hospital, to Mr. Lownds then chapel warden, and so since. The chapel warden always took care to clean it against every Sacrament Day, till lately Parry ordered it to be sent to another place, on which the chapel warden refused to let him have it without a note of security, which Parry refused and has brought an action against the chapel warden. Beg directions as to the keeping of the Communion plate. 1 page. [Ibid, No. 77.]

[? 1729.] 707. A deduction of the Bank of England's allowances for circulating Exchequer bills with recital of the various Acts of Parliament relating thereto from 5 Wm. and Mary, &c. until the Aggregate Fund took place. 3 pages. [Ibid, No. 78.]

[? 1729.] 708. An examination of the Civil List accounts and of the difference in statement of same between Mr. Scrope and the Commissioners. 4¼ pages. [Ibid., No. 81.]

[? 1729.]

709. A statement with regard to the Bank of England.

£		£	s.	d.	£	s.	d.
	8,959,995*l.* 14*s.* 8*d.* is the capital of the Bank, on which $5\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. is divided, which is - -				492,799	15	6
	To this capital the government owe
1,600,000	the original debt at 6 per cent. -	96,000	0	0
	Management - -	4,000	0	0
					100,000	0	0
1,500,000	Exchequer bills cancelled at 4 per cent.				60,000	0	0
4,000,000	purchased of the South Sea Company at 4 per cent. - - -	160,000	0	0
	Management -	1,898	3	$5\frac{1}{2}$
					161,898	3	$5\frac{1}{2}$
1,750,000	annuities, anno 1728, at 4 per cent. -				70,000	0	0
1,250,000	annuities anno 1729, at 4 per cent. -				50,000	0	0
10,100,000	debt. Annuity - -	-			441,898	3	$5\frac{1}{2}$

By the above account it appears that the Bank capital of 8,959,000*l.* has a debt due to it of 10,100,000*l.* that they divide 492,000*l.* a year and receive only 441,000*l.* and therefore according to that computation they must divide 51,000*l.* more than they receive. But to make good this 51,000*l.* they have the circulating Exchequer bills, which only at 3 per cent. is 60,000*l.* a year, and their profits by banking, which must be very considerable. Of the 4,000,000*l.* purchased of the South Sea Company, only 3,400,000*l.* was made part of the capital and that at 118 per cent.; the 600,000*l.* remains to be added. 1 sheet.

March 23. 136. J. Young, Collector of Customs at Holetown, Barbadoes, to Sir Robert Walpole, concerning the abuses, mismanagements, and violations of the acts of trade within his cognisance, and enclosing copies of letters passed between himself and Mr. Lascelles, collector, and Mr. Upton, comptroller, relating to the management of the Customs at Barbados. At least 3,000*l.* a year is lost by the present usages and practices. In the case of rum it is the custom to take the duty at the market price at the time of passing entry. The merchants, coopers, &c. therefore take out entries at the beginning of the season when the price is only half what it advances to in 2, 3 or 6 months. These entries may lie dormant till they think fit to take out a cocket. The abuses in respect to the duties on sugars are equally notorious, but the whole island is so generally concerned in the maintaining them that it will not be easy, suddenly, to rectify them. Has tried to stop it in his own district by destroying the usage of entering sugars with one collector, and shipping them in the district of another. Further represents the evil of allowing the collector or comptroller at Bridgetown power to make what cockets they please without any control or any possibility of its being known whether entries have been made of the commodities for the shipping of which a cocket is granted. "It is a custom here for the collector and comptroller to sign these cockets for one another, which cockets may be paid away as bank notes to any person who has sugar to export and renewed at any time after with fresh dates and for other ships, and for anything I know, in other names ten times over for two bits a time each cocket, so that when ships are cleared and the cockets taken up by the searcher, it is impossible to check or compare these cockets with the entries." 5 pages.

Appending:—(1.) A sheet of rules as to the entry of goods shipped in each port with the collector of that port, and as to the signing of cockets by the collector and comptroller jointly. 1 page.

(2.) A booklet (very much damaged) of 26 pages (19 written) containing copies of letters and depositions, &c. with regard to the administration of the Customs in Barbadoes ranging from 1727–8, January 13, to 1729–30, March 7, lettered as follows :—

(i.) Hy. Lascelles and A. Upton to J. Young, dated 1729–30, January 27, concerning the making up his accounts quarterly, and the balance due from Young to the Crown of 270*l.* 6*s.* 10¾*d.* in sugar at 12*s.* 6*d.* per cwt. which balance in sugar will amount to 450 pounds at least.

(k.) J. Young to Lascelles and Upton, dated 1729–30, January 28, in reply to (i.) Pursuant to instructions balance must be paid in sugar, and there are no sugars in the country, "as you well know."

(l.) Lascelles and Upton to Young, dated 1729–30, February 16, concerning Young's refusal to receive entries of rum and other charges.

Upon a representation of the Lords of the Admiralty to the King it appeared that several passes of the old form might have fallen into the hands of foreigners, who under colour of such passes might carry on their trade to the prejudice of the King's subjects. On the 31st December last His Majesty therefore issued a proclamation directing that all passes of the old form should not continue in force longer than 12 months from the succeeding March 1, except for ships on long voyages, and requiring all old passes to be returned within 12 months from March 1st to the Admiralty office, or Collector of Customs of the outports, or the Governors of the Plantations, and passes in a new form to be taken out for their several ships according to the treaties subsisting between Great Britain and the Governments on the Coast of Barbary, and according to the regulations of the late King in Council of 1722, June 14. The complaint is against the fee on renewal, viz. 25*s.* at the Admiralty Office, and the additional fees demanded by the officers at the outports. By an Order in Council of 1676–7, March 23, the fee of 25*s.* was allowed to be taken by the Admiralty Office on the issuing a Mediterranean pass, though at the time there was no stamp duty in being. The like fee was again approved by Order in Council of date 1717, July 13. Propose to continue same fee, but to add that renewals of passes should not be obligatory in less than 12 months, and that 15*s.* only should be charged on such renewals, and that the officers of the outports should be restrained from taking more.

The Gent: informed me that you desired that the 500,000*l.* Exchequer bills now to be created might be charged thereon in like manner. But this can't and was not intended to be done in the case of those Exchequer bills, nor is the reason the same for doing it in this case as was in the other. [Before May 27.] 285. The petition of the United Company of Merchants trading to the East Indies, to the Lords of the Treasury. The duties of 15 per cent. on muslins and calicoes are repayable without delay in case of re-export. The Receiver General constantly reserved in his hands sufficient of the duties to answer the drawbacks without delay until the practice was altered by a minute of the Treasury in the time of the Earl of Godolphin, then Lord High Treasurer, directed to the Commissioners of the Customs, commanding the Receiver General to pay every week into the Exchequer all such sums as should come into his hands. "By this means those merchants that had bought goods at the East India sales and had exported them could not receive the said drawback, though they were in possession of their debentures, and were obliged to keep them till a following sale, when they gave them to the Company in payment for goods then bought. And as this was a great hardship, in order to avoid that they have all since late years applied to your petitioners, in order that they would prolong their sales to that length of time that the debentures for the goods bought at the beginning of a sale may be perfected at the Custom House, and that they could then give them in payment to the Company before that sale expired, which in some times continued upon that account for 4 months together, which otherwise would hardly have been so many weeks." This is detrimental to the revenues of the Crown, and creates also a great confusion in petitioners' affairs, but is a thing they cannot well avoid, upon account of the strong application of the buyers. Therefore pray suitable provision for satisfaction of the necessary drawbacks. 2 pages.

Appending:—(a.) Report, dated 1730, May 27, from Rob. Paul and E. Williams to the Commissioners of the Customs on the memorial from the United East India Company. "The company, pursuant to the Acts 11 & 12 Wm. III. and 3 & 4 Anne, constantly pays the 15 per cent. on muslins and calicoes in 20 days after the end of their sales, and the nett money remaining after payment of debentures is forthwith paid into the Exchequer. Sometimes it has happened that the money has been paid into the Exchequer and several debentures, then become due in point of time and very little wanting to finish them, have been postponed to next sale, which caused much clamour and uneasiness among the merchants, who conceive they have a just right to be paid their drawbacks for goods exported by them as soon as possibly their debentures can be finished. The apprehension of this inconvenience to happen again to them or that the East India Company should be obliged to take them of them in payment, and keep them till the next sale has been the cause as we conceive of their application. But as great care was taken during the last sale and within the 20 days after it, to give the utmost despatch to their debentures they have this time been paid so to their satisfaction that no one complains." 1 page.

Another memorial of the East India Company to the Commissioners of Customs, signed by Charles Du Bois, treasurer of the Company, and to the same effect; together with a minute, dated 1730, May 9, of the receipt and reading of same by the Commissioners of the Customs; and certificate, dated 1730, May 12, by H. Selwyn, Receiver General of the Customs, to the effect that by the Act of Parliament and his patent he was obliged to pay the money received from the collectors of the Customs weekly into the Exchequer. 3 pages.

By an Act of fifth George, the same was ordered to be made good for herrings exported before 1719, May 1. July 11. 404. Statement of opinion by the Attorney General on the following case submitted concerning the importation of Spanish tobacco from the British plantations:—

"Virginia tobacco comes from thence in the leaf tied up in bundles at one end thereof, but the Spaniards always export tobacco in large rolls of — pounds weight, each of which is called pudding or roll, and therefore in the book of rates Spanish tobacco in pudding or roll is valued at — per pound, but the officers of the Customs refuse to admit the importation of this Spanish tobacco in pudding or roll into England from the English colonies, calling it manufactured tobacco, and alleging that no manufactured tobacco is allowed to be imported from the English colonies, though this pudding roll is only the common method of package used among the Spaniards, and nothing is done to it after it comes out of the Spaniards' hands till it gets to England."

Therefore demanded:—(1.) Whether the Acts prohibiting the importation of manufactured tobacco from the British colonies extend to any other tobacco except such as is manufactured in those colonies? (2.) Whether tobacco or any other produce of the Spanish dominions in America may not be imported on the same terms from the English colonies as from Old Spain? The first question the Attorney General holds to depend upon the second and the second upon the Act of Navigation, 12 Car. II. c. 18, and to be decided only by fact and usage. 2 pages.

Recommend the appointing of two small vessels, well armed and manned, and empowered by the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to examine ships at sea which may be suspected of carrying out wool, one to be stationed between the Isles of Arran and Baltimore, the other between Baltimore and Kinsale, the parts where this practice most notoriously prevails. 2 pages.

July 29. 464. Report by Sir P. Yorke and C. Talbot, Attorney and Solicitor General, to the Lords of the Treasury on the report of the late Surveyor General of His Majesty's lands, made upon the petition of the Duke of Chandos for renewing a Crown lease of a wharf and buildings in Scotland Yard, &c. as below. There is ground for belief that the passages excepted out of the lease to Sir Stephen Fox and the new passage under the guard room were inserted in the lease to Sir Wm. Aislabie by surprise and without sufficient warrant and a material alteration made in the proviso for determining the said lease without proper authority. By gaining possession of the said passage in this manner lessee has been enabled to convert part of the ground demised into a wharf, to the damage of the Crown. Are of opinion the grant is made void by the Act of 1 Anne, for the better support of Her Majesty's household and that a writ of scire facias may properly be brought in His Majesty's name to repeal said letters patent.

Appending:—(a.) Report, dated 1729–30, March 19, of Phillips Gybbon, Surveyor General, to the Lords of the Treasury on the petition of the Duke of Chandos, desiring a reversionary lease of a messuage, ground, outbuildings and passages in or near Scotland Yard, and of the ground called the Wharf Dock and Old Carpenters Yard in North Scotland Yard, to fill up the several terms in being to the respective ones for which certain letters patent (detailed) were granted. The letters patent of 1719, July 7, recite a grant made 4 William and Mary, July 22, to Sir Stephen Fox of a messuage, ground, and other conveniences then in his possession, a little garden contiguous thereto, the ground then used for a public passage not only to and from the said messuage, but also between Scotland Yard and the Woodyard, Watergate, and the rooms called the Old Bakehouse, also of a stable and coachhouse situated near the Guard room, and a piece of ground backwards near the wall of the said woodyard, except so much ground of the premises as would make a passage of six feet wide at least between the said bakehouse, watergate, and Scotland Yard, and the passage behind the said guard room leading to the Granary Lodgings. On surrender of said lease, His late Majesty by the said letters patent of 1719, July 7, granted to Wm. Aislabie said premises, &c. together with the said passages excepted out of the said lease, and also the passage under the Guard room leading from Scotland Yard to the demised premises, under the old rent of 6*s.* 8*d.* and a new rent of 5*s.* provided the Crown might resume on rebuilding the Palace of Whitehall, on paying 3,000*l.* to lessee.

By letters patent of 1719, August 3, His late Majesty granted to John Child, gent. without fine, for 31 years, the wharf and dock, and Old Carpenters Yard in North Scotland Yard, within the Palace of Whitehall, with reservation to the Crown to use said wharf, dock, and the crane there for royal stores in as free and ample manner as then used. These leased premises are now vested in petitioner by conveyances.

Have taken a survey of the premises and find them not to correspond in some respects with the description in the lease. Represents the objections of the officers of the Board of Greencloth and others as below against the re-grant. Point out the irregularities in the making of the particular and constat for said lease of 1719, and also that at the time of passing the said lease there was no such passage of 11 feet high from the ground under the Guard room as therein granted, and that unless such a passage had been since made, part of the said premises could not thus have been converted into a wharf. 12 pages.

(b.) Copies of correspondence and representations on the above subject as submitted by Surveyor General Phillips Gybbon to the Lords of the Treasury, folios 11–16, as follow:—

(1.) Letter, dated 1729–30, January 19, from T. Read, T. Wynn, Tho. Hales and Robert Bristow, officers of the Board of Greencloth to the Surveyor General of His Majesty's lands representing the great nuisance and damage the wharf called Benson's Wharf in Middle Scotland Yard is to His Majesty's service and to the Palace of Whitehall. The Board of Green Cloth has been obliged to pay wharfage for His Majesty's own things landing at the said wharf and allowed to land nothing there though for His Majesty's use until such wharfage is paid. Further, that part of the palace called Scotland Yard is often so filled with carts and rubbish brought from the wharf that it is dangerous passing through the yard to the offices of His Majesty's household. The gate leading to the said yard being broken and the pavement thereabouts so torn up by carts loaded from the wharf, the way is often scarce passable for His Majesty's servants. The lodgings for His Majesty's servants are often damaged by lighters and timber belonging to the wharf beating against them. His Majesty's provisions of wood and coal are often hindered from landing at His Majesty's woodyard by reason of the great quantity of lighters and timber at the said wharf. His Majesty now pays for the lease of lodgings for his servants in lieu of those which were where the wharf now is, particularly to Mr. Eckersall, a clerk of the kitchen, 50*l.* per annum. If the wharf is continued, other lodgings may become useless to His Majesty. Folio 11.

(2.) The officers of the Board of Works, Whitehall, to [the Surveyor General?] 1719, January 29, in reply to a letter desiring an account of how much the charge of new paving and repairing the pavements to and from the buildings and ground in the two Scotland Yards leased by the Crown, 1719, July 7 and August 3, has exceeded the expense for the like number of years preceding, and also if any of His Majesty's stores have been since paid for, obstructed or delayed. The accounts for the paving may amount to 30*l.* per annum. The landing of some of the King's stores met with some obstructions formerly, but not lately. In case the grant is renewed think it highly necessary the right of wharf and crane should be particularly reserved to His Majesty, and that the laying of soil or dung should be prohibited, which is now the common practice, and greatly chokes up the dock and thereby prevents the sewer from discharging itself into it. The neighbours frequently complain of the offensive dung and heavy carriages continually passing to and from the wharfs. Folio 11b.

(3.) The memorial of John Folliot, Ja. St. Clair, J. Guise, majors of His Majesty's three Regiments of Foot Guards, and Samuel Needham, surveyor of the Guards rooms, to ——— against a re-grant of the grant of Benson's Wharf in Scotland Yard That part of the Great Guardroom where the soldiers lie is raised over 6 feet high, by which a great part of it is rendered useless, and they have not the convenience as formerly of exercising the officers and recruits in rainy weather. The carts and carriages passing to the wharf have so torn up the pavements that it is not possible to parade three regiments as formerly they used to do. The carts frequently in their passing into the wharfs run against the stairs leading up into the Great Guardroom, so as to do damage to both the brick and woodwork, which damages have been twice repaired within this two months at His Majesty's expense by the Surveyor of His Majesty's Guard room. The frequent passing of carts and carriages to the wharf also occasions frequent obstructions to the Members of Parliament in going and returning from the House. Undated. Folio 12.

(4.) Order, dated 1729–30, January 10, from Henry Pelham to the field officer in waiting for His Majesty's three Regiments of Foot Guards. The Speaker of the House of Commons having represented that his own coach and those of the Members of Parliament have been frequently interrupted in their going down to the House by the carts coming from the wharfs out of the two great gates leading from Scotland Yard into Whitehall and Charing Cross, directs the placing of a sentinel at each of those gates, with orders not to permit any cart to pass between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. during session of Parliament. Folio 12b.

(5.) Memorial of 13 persons, His Majesty's tenants or servants inhabiting within the Palace of Whitehall, to Phillips Gybbon, Surveyor General of His Majesty's lands, against the proposed grant of a reversionary lease of the wharfs in Whitehall, and representing the damages and inconveniences they suffer since the present lease of the premises in 1719. At the granting the said lease there was but one passage for carts from the said wharfs to the street, viz. through North Scotland Yard, but soon after a new way was cut through the Great Guardroom, to allow carts to pass through Middle Scotland Yard. Memorialists are much incommoded by the continual noise of carts and drivers from break of day till night, and the frequent unloading and reloading in the said yard great quantities of stone and sand, which the carters leave there at their pleasure, as well as their empty carts, whereby the inhabitants are obstructed in getting to their own doors, great part of His Majesty's palace being thereby turned into a common wharf. Folios 12ᵇ–13.

King William and Queen Anne did make such grants to the Synod of Argyle of the rents and revenues belonging to the late bishops of Argyle and of the Isles as is alleged. But by both the said grants the synods and their members were declared accomptable to the Lords of the Treasury for their management of the said rents and revenues to the pious uses they were given for, of which they do not appear to have ever given in any account. They ought to do so before the expediting of His Majesty's intended grant. Submit a draft of a signature for a new grant of the said revenues to the Synod. 2 pages.

Appending:—(a.) The petition of the Synod of Argyle to the King. In 1695 King William gave the Synod of Argyle a grant of the whole rents revenues, &c. of the bishopric of Argyle and the Isles for the settling of schools, repairing of churches, educating of young men at universities and qualifying them for the ministry, and for augmenting the stipends of ministers where too small. Queen Anne renewed the grant for the year 1705, and so yearly until or unless recalled by royal writ. August 13. 506. Report from H. Hole, G. Drummond, G. Vaughan, Commissioners of Customs, Scotland, to the Lords of the Treasury on the memorial of the Duke of Hamilton. "By the Act of 14 Car. 2. cap. 11, and 6 Anne, cap. 26, the King may from time to time, by commission out of the Court of Exchequer, appoint such places, ports, members, and creeks as shall be lawful for the landing or shipping of goods or merchandise, and where the officers or their deputies shall reside. In consequence of the last named Act, commissions were issued out of the Court of Exchequer in Scotland for settling and appointing the several ports, members, and creeks now in Scotland. But the Isle of Arran being about 30 miles distant from the mainland, and without trade or manufacture, with many other islands and places in the like circumstances were not included in any of the aforesaid Commissions. About six years ago, some salt pans were erected, and a colliery set on foot on the Duke of Hamilton's estate in that island. The duty arising by the former is soon to cease, and when collected was so small that it did not pay the expense of the officer attending them; nor can it be supposed that the duty to arise by the exportation of the coals can in any degree answer the charge the Crown would be put to by appointing officers to collect same, who, besides . . . cannot be legally appointed without the . . authority aforementioned; and experience having shown us the many inconveniences as well as detriment that the revenue sustains by the great number of places in Scotland which already enjoy the privilege of ports, as we fully represented to your

For the security of the revenue the laws of excise make all utensils in the possession of any brewer, &c. liable to the payment of duty. Prefixing :—Report referred to. In 1729 complaint was made that the officers at Cardiff obliged masters of ships clearing coastwise to Bristol and other ports up the Severn to take out coast coquets and give bond. August 22. 525. Statement of opinion by Sir P. Yorke, Attorney General, concerning the warrant for the Queen's grant and the draft of the bill [see p. 429]. The auditor's constat only is annexed to the warrant, and not the particular as rated by the Surveyor General. "In all warrants for leases which I have seen, the annexed parchment describing the premises is called a particular (for I take the constat to be a previous instrument), and there is a subscription to it by the Surveyor General settling the rent to be reserved, and proposing such covenants and clauses as he thinks necessary to be added to those intimated by the auditor." Apprehends this form to be necessary to make the grant good in law. Recommends the making of the grant directly from the King to the Queen, as in the case of some of the grants already made, the Queen Consort being considered a sole person in law. There will then be no need for trustees, and the covenants for repairs, &c. will be upon the Queen and her executors. Recommends the ascertaining the fact as to the surrender of Lord Romney's lease, and as to whether the legal estate of it ever came back to the Crown or not. Tunbridge Wells, August 22. 3 pages.

August 28. 531. The Commissioners of the Navy to John Scrope concerning Mr. Auditor Harley's memorandum inserted at the foot of the account of the Treasurer of the Navy for the year ending 1726, Christmas, relating to imprests not brought to account within the year. It is not consistent with the Treasurer of the Navy's payments to bring to an account at the end of each year all the imprests paid by him, neither can he with any sort of safety to the Crown be allowed those imprests until the persons to whom they have been advanced have accounted for and cleared the same, nor has it ever been the practice so to do, unless it were at the determination of a treasurership upon the ultimate ledger. This matter has been fully stated in a report to the Lords of the Treasury, of date 1693, November 8. For the future have determined to subjoin a memorandum at the foot of the treasurer's ledger noting what money by way of imprests he has paid which he has had no allowance for in the said ledger, whereby the Auditor may distinguish the net balance in cash remaining at the end of each year's account. 2 pages.
